Future Trade Of Japan With United States Will Be What U. S. Allows

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The American government assumed mastery of Japan's economic future today by invoking supreme control over U. S.-Japanese trade and at the same time prepared for a major offensive against Japanese subversive activities in this country.

In swift retaliation against Japan's drive on French Indo China, President Roosevelt impounded some $130,000,000 of Japanese assets in the United States and temporarily brought to a halt all movement of trade between the two nations.

Also Freezes Chinese Assets
Chinese assets also were frozen at the request of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek to prevent Japan from using funds seized in occupied Chinese territory.

Under this sweeping action, not a single scrap of merchandise may be shipped to or imported from Japan without American government license. The United States, if so disposed, can shut off all further oil supplies to the Japanese and, at the same time, close the American market to Japanese silk industries.

PA NEW OBSERVES

It is reported that the thermometer at the bus terminal on Friday afternoon at 2:15 registered 118 degrees in the sun.

Pa New has received a query asking if there are any places suitable for cooking for picnics at Gaston park? Yes, there are a number of outside grills at the park, which are very convenient for picnickers, and there is always an abundance of wood at hand for the fire. Many picnics have already been held in this park this season.

Friday night was a hot one, fine for growing corn. Some passengers on the street car this morning stated they had quite a time trying to get some sleep, there was no breeze, not a leaf seemed to be stirring.

Young people attending an open air conference Thursday evening at Providence Baptist church, near Ellwood City, were somewhat annoyed with the presence of a number of bats swooping down in the proximity of their heads. One young lady succeeded in ending for good the flight of one of the creatures.

Come On Mission Dealing With American Aid To Russia In War

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 26.—Lieut. Gen. Philip Ivanovich Golikov, deputy chief of the Soviet Army General Staff, and his aide, Col. Alexander Retin, an army engineering expert, arrived in New York today enroute to Washington.

They had come from England on a mission dealing with American aid to Russia, and flew to New York from Montreal. They were met at LaGuardia field by Constantine Oumansky, Soviet ambassador to the United States, and Col. Ilya M. Sarayev, acting military attaché at the Soviet embassy in Washington.

They were scheduled to leave for Washington aboard an American Airlines plane shortly after noon today.

The Russian military leaders declined comment when they stepped from their plane, but intimated that a statement might be issued prior to their departure for Washington.

State Studies Traffic Hazard At State Line

Some action upon the part of the state highway department towards the alleviation of the traffic hazard at the Pennsylvania-Ohio state line on Route 422 is seen possible in a letter of Secretary of Highways I. Lamont Hughes to State Senator J. K. McQuiddy.

Senator McQuiddy recently wrote to Mr. Hughes asking that something be done to avoid further death accidents at the state line point. Mr. Hughes said an investigation would be made promptly.

Senator McQuiddy also wrote Mr. Hughes concerning the proposed improvements which were to be made in Lawrence county this year. In his answer Mr. Hughes said plans are being completed for the widening of Wilmington avenue and the construction of a by-pass at Johnstown. Corners and that plans are being prepared for the improvement of Atlantic avenue.

In his letter Mr. Hughes denied that any commitments had been made for any other improvements in this county this year. This statement does not coincide with the statement made by state highway (Continued On Page Two)

More Young Men Will Join Youths At N. Y. A. Center

Resident Center Population Is Being Steadily Increased—Work Started

Accommodations are ready for twenty more young men at the Boys' Work Experience Center in Cunningham Park, according to George Keats, director, today, and accommodations for another forty will be ready within a short time. As soon as the accommodations are ready the boys will come in from various western Pennsylvania counties.

At the present time there are 60 boys at the center, part of whom are already engaged in training in welding. Others are assisting in setting up lathes in the machine shop. Another work shop is to be erected soon and two more dormitories started.

Gradually the center is assuming shape. There is much work to be done in the way of siding the dormitories, finishing the interiors and laying sewer lines but plans for this work are already approved.

Four modern hydrogen are transformers have been sent to the center by the Curtiss Wright Airplane Company and on Monday an instructor from the Curtiss Wright plant is expected to arrive to train boys in the art of airplane welding. When they complete the course the boys who show aptitude in the work will be placed in the plane factory.

Huge Tax Bill Sent To House

Bill Expected To Raise $3,550,000,000 In New Federal Revenue

By GRIFFING RANCROFT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The house ways and means committee today formally reported the highest tax bill in this nation's history—designed to raise $3,550,000,000 in new federal revenue—and advised the house that there is convincing evidence this tax "will be borne cheerfully by the American people."

The bill, approved by the tax-writing group after three months of steady work, will impose steep increases in individual income taxes, corporate taxes, excess profits taxes and boost excises on many special commodities and services.

The committee, in its report said that this bill, along with existing federal revenue, will finance about 60 per cent of government spending, leaving forty per cent to be met by borrowing.

"The bill is unprecedented in the amount of revenue it is designed to provide," the report declared. "It lays a substantially increased burden upon the American people."

May Test Roosevelt's Foreign Policy

Lively Debate Will Develop

Army Service Extension Bill May Bring Foreign Policy Up As Target

SENATE DEBATE MAY BE OPENED MONDAY

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, July 26.—Congressional non-interventionists today mapped plans to use the army service extension bill as the vehicle for a full dress debate, and perhaps a test, of President Roosevelt's foreign policy.

With the senate military affairs committee in tentative agreement on major provisions of a bill to extend service of National Guardsmen, Selectees and Reserves beyond one year, the senate may open debate on the measure on Monday.

The non-interventionists leaders said will link the declaration of a national emergency and a statement that the nation is in peril. They also will seek a new ban on sending an American expeditionary force to Europe.

While administration leaders hoped to pass the service extension bill in the senate next week, and in the house by Aug. 6, a battle over the Roosevelt foreign policy issue may delay a final decision on the issue.

Demand Restrictions
"You may be sure we will demand a specific prohibition against sending boys beyond the western hemisphere," said Sen. Wheeler (D-Montana).

Sen. Reynolds (D-North Carolina, chairman of the senate military affairs committee, may break with the administration for the first time since becoming head of the important committee. It was reported. He is expected to oppose the service extension bill, although he is seeking to speed up a committee decision.

Rejecting the war department's proposed bill, which contained a sweeping grant of power, the senate committee resumed secret sessions today in an effort to complete the draft of a measure of its own.

"We made a flat-footed declaration that the nation is imperiled and that a national emergency exists, in the last draft we had before us," said Sen. Lee (D-Oklahoma). "We then propose in subsequent paragraphs to limit the declaration to the objectives of the bill, which are to keep the army intact."

One senator said the chief difficulty is harmonizing the new measure with the language used in various acts, including the national defense act, the resolution calling the National Guard into active service and the draft act.

RETALIATORY ACT TAKEN BY JAPAN AFTER U. S. MOVE

London's decision to denounce all Anglo-Japanese commercial agreements.

Japanese officials obviously were angered by official American statements condemning the Tokyo-Vichy agreement for "defense" of Indo-China as a threat to American territory in the Far East.

The Japanese freezing order came in the form of a finance ministry announcement stating that, effective Monday, the permission of the finance minister would be needed for six classes of transactions involving residents of Japan and nationals of the United States, American territories or the Philippine commonwealth.

Transactions Listed
These transactions were listed as follows:

- 1-Acquisition or disposal of movable or immovable properties.
 - 2-Acquisition or disposal of real rights and credits.
 - 3-Transactions in trust or movable or immovable properties or securities.
 - 4-Liquidation, contraction or underwriting of debts.
 - 5-Transactions in financial and trust loans or their accommodation.
 - 6-Any transactions involving monthly sums in excess of 500 yen.
- Exceptions were provided in cases involving tax payments and payments of salaries to Japanese employed by American citizens.
- Other exceptions were made in cases "specified by the finance minister."
- The order stipulated that Japanese entering into transactions such as:

British To Denounce Treaties
Simultaneously the foreign office announced that the British government had served notice of its intention to denounce all Anglo-Japanese commercial agreements, on grounds that objectives of the treaties have not been realized.

The Japanese announcement added, however, that the Anglo-Japanese commercial treaty will remain in effect for another year and the Indian and Burmese treaties for another six months as provided in their separate denunciation clauses.

With Japan and the United States exchanging economic punches, it was announced the privy council would meet on Monday to consider the situation.

Finance Minister Ogura announced in a formal statement that Japan had been making preparations in anticipation of Washington's freezing move and declared:

"As a result, the remainder of Japanese assets in the United States is quite small.

"Furthermore, Japanese-American trade has been diminishing in volume and consequently the economic effect of the American move is comparatively slight."

"Full preparations have been completed against the American move and appropriate steps will be taken as the situation demands."

Peru And Ecuador Ready To Halt Border Warfare

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 26.—Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles reported today the State Department has received word that Peru and Ecuador are ready to end their warfare over territorial claims.

Welles disclosed that the Peruvian foreign minister had informed the Brazilian and Argentine ambassadors at Lima that Peru would accept the fixing of a definite date and hour for cessation of hostilities.

Ecuador has indicated a similar attitude, according to the secretary.

As a result, Welles reported, the American government is in telephonic touch with Rio De Janeiro and Buenos Aires on what steps the three governments should take to fix an armistice.

The three powers already have suggested establishment of a "no man's land" thirty kilometers in width, and it appears likely that such a zone will be established.

Chauffeur Dies Result Of Burns

Accident On July 17 Proves Fatal To Willie V. Ferris Of South Front St.

As the result of burns received while cleaning a car with gasoline on July 17, Willie V. Ferris, aged 50, of 20 South Front street, passed away in the New Castle hospital this morning at about 5:30 o'clock.

Ferris, chauffeur for P. J. Flaherty, president of the Johnson Bronze Co., was cleaning an automobile with gasoline when the cleaning cloth ignited. Ferris, who was lying under the car, threw the cloth away from him and it struck a can of gasoline which exploded.

Ferris had resided in New Castle for 25 years and was a member of the Union Baptist church here. He was also a member of Lawrence Lodge, No. 18, I. V. P. O. E.

Surviving are his wife, Catherine L. Ferris; one daughter, Alice, an uncle and aunt, Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Tibbs of Homestead, and an aunt, Mrs. M. Kinsley Homestead.

The body has been removed to the Crunkleton funeral home, West Falls street, and will be taken to the residence Sunday evening. Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the Union Baptist church with the pastor, Rev. J. G. Strothers, in charge. Interment will be in Graceland cemetery.

U. S. JAPANESE TRADE CONTROL IS TAKEN BY U. S.

Japan's economy, the United States also is ready to halt alleged Japanese espionage and other subversive acts.

Mr. Roosevelt explained that the freezing of Japan's assets was aimed partly to curb subversive activities in the United States.

May Expel Consular Agents
Although the state department referred all inquiries on this subject to the justice department, reports were current in diplomatic quarters that Japanese consular authorities in the United States might be expelled. Such action was taken against German and Italian consuls recently.

Earlier this week Chairman Dies (D) Tex. of the house committee investigating un-American activities announced evidence gathered by his group would prove that certain Japanese consular agencies had engaged in espionage and other acts inimical to the national defense.

Justice officials released public comment, but it was learned the federal bureau of investigation has been conducting an extensive inquiry into reported Japanese undercover operations.

Trade Licensing
Treasury officials, who will administer the trade licensing gave no hint as to how much oil and other strategic supplies would be permitted to flow to Japan. At present, the United States supplies Japan with approximately 70 per cent of her petroleum requirements.

It is not believed likely that a complete embargo on oil will be imposed at this time. High officials indicated that the licensing system has been invoked to demonstrate that the United States "meant business" when it denounced Japanese aggression in the Far East. Stoppage of further oil shipments to America would deal a nearly ruinous blow to Japanese industries which already are suffering from reduced trade in other sections of the world.

It is the opinion of informed officials that the trade licensing system will be flexible, the flow of goods between the two nations depending on future Japanese actions.

Close collaboration between the United States, Great Britain and Australia in countering Japanese expansionist aims appears certain. The American government's action against Japan came soon after consultations with the British and Australian ministers at the state department.

BRITISH FLIERS BOMB BERLIN

British bombers were lost in last night's operations.

A communiqué said the planes that attacked Berlin—huge four-engine bombers—carried full loads of incendiary bombs and most powerful bombs, which were dropped on the center of the German capital.

German anti-aircraft batteries the communiqué added, adopted new tactics and "attempted to mystify the attackers by not shooting."

"But the moment the first bomb was dropped the usual barrage broke out," the communiqué said.

Environment is everything. The moron never even suspects he is less than perfect if it's a moron community.

Vichy Announces Franco - Japanese Agreement Reached

Says Agreement Provides For Mutual Defense Of Indo-China

(International News Service)
VICHY, France, July 26.—The French government formally announced today that a Franco-Japanese agreement has been concluded providing for mutual defense of French Indo-China.

The announcement was contained in a communiqué issued by the foreign office, which also stated that military and technical accords to carry out the provisions have not yet been completed and still are being examined.

The foreign ministry insisted that the final defense plan respects the territorial integrity of Indo-China as well as French sovereignty over the far eastern colony, one of the most strategic areas in the entire Orient.

Editors' note: A similar announcement was issued at Tokyo by the Japanese information board.

This statement said an agreement for joint defense of Indo-China had been completed by Japan and France July 21 and stressed that Japan intends to observe strictly the obligations arising from various existing arrangements between Japan and France, especially the solemn promise to respect the territorial integrity and sovereignty to French Indo-China.

The German high command claimed new successes for Nazi and Rumanian troops in the Ukraine and Bessarabia. In the Ukraine, it was claimed, resistance by Soviet rear guards has been broken and retreating Russian forces are now being pursued.

The United States and Britain delivered their economic punch just as the Japanese and Vichy governments announced a joint agreement for mutual defense of Indo-China.

Japan, the Tokyo and Vichy announcements stated, promised to respect the territorial integrity and French sovereignty of the strategic far eastern colony.

While world attention focussed on the Far East, warfare still raged up and down the huge eastern front.

Belin claimed Leningrad now is "doomed" and that masses of troops are caught in a great pocket in that area, where they face "extermination."

Moscow said that fighting had continued throughout the night at strategic centers facing Leningrad. Moscow and Kiev and claimed the Germans suffered "heavy losses."

During the night, while German planes dropped a few bombs on eastern England, British bombers attacked Berlin for the first time since June and also heavily bombed factories at Hanover and industries and docks at the German Port of Hamburg. Berlin admitted some casualties were caused by bombs that fell on the outskirts of the German capital.

WEST MIDDLESEX PLANS DEDICATION
diesex, the dedication's general chairman, expects to play host to burgesses and mayors from many surrounding towns. Attorney Thomas H. Armstrong, of Wheatland, will be master-of-ceremonies.

The steadily new vladut started last September, spans both the Erie and Pennsylvania railroads and the Shenango river. To the west it leads to Hubbard. O. It carries Route 318, which takes east-bound motorists through Main street to Mercer.

Parade Planned
An ox-team, located on a farm near Ellwood City, will head the "Parade of Progress" which will depict the growth of transportation up to the airplane. Airplanes will hover overhead. Five bands will supply music. David Tate is in charge of the march.

Fireworks, provided by New Castle plants, will top off the celebration late in the evening.

Publicity Chairman Parrshall, the historian, will tell townspeople of the ten bridges which have stood, within the limits of the borough. He is the oldest living native of the town, and his late grandfather, John P. Newkirk, built the first cabin to appear on what now is Main street.

Baptists Enjoy Annual Picnic

Outing Is Held At Cascade Park
On Friday Afternoon
And Evening

At Cascade park, one of the most enjoyable picnics ever held by the First Baptist church and Sunday school was on Friday afternoon and evening.

Frank Hay and son, Joe, sports committee, started the games and contests about 4 o'clock. The treasure hunt, which afforded lots of fun, was won by Charles L. Reese.

Girls' race, 10 to 12 years, winner, Grace Kishi; pebble race, boys, Charles Shoof; boys' race, 10 to 12, 50 yards, Wesley Fombelle, 12 to 14, Harold Capitola; girls, 10 to 12, Susanna Kasola; 12 to 14, Delores Perry; 8 to 10, Grace Rogers, Lenora Ann Dukes; boys under 12, Harold Capitola; log sawing contest, crosscut, Ralph Hay and son, Joe.

Mrs. Elizabeth Critchlow was the first picnicker on the ground.

Supper was served in the grove about 6:30, cafeteria style, by the Laura Strickler Bible class, which was a departure from the usual basket picnic, which saved mother from much laborious preparations.

Superintendent Weller and his efficient committees were commended on the new plan. There were 355 present.

Dr. Frank Hollinshead gave the invocation, and John W. Owens led in the singing of the doxology.

After supper, the picnickers retired to the community house to enjoy a splendid program. The prize committee, D. R. Smith, Mrs. D. C. McClelland, and Mrs. W. H. Luikhart, awarded Mrs. Nettie Agnew, Phoenix, Ariz., the prize for attending the picnic from the longest distance.

A prize to the youngest mother, Mrs. Leslie Dean, for the largest family, Mrs. Nick Capitola; teacher for the longest period, Ralph Hay; oldest person present, Mrs. Eliza Brown; a rolling pin was given the newest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gearin. Sarah Dandy received a prize for discovering "Mr. Baptist," who proved to be Dr. Hollinshead, who gave a short address stating he had enjoyed this, one of the best picnics he had ever attended, and that he much enjoyed his work as acting pastor of the church.

Pep singing was led by W. O. "Red" Williams, Mrs. Luikhart and Mrs. Paul Fombelle officiated at the piano.

Mrs. Flossie Weller was master of ceremonies of the program given by primary department, the juniors, intermediate, Young People's chorus, and senior classes, which consisted of vocal and instrumental music and games.

The children enjoyed riding the merry-go-round, provided for them by the school.

Mrs. Myrtle Hildebrand, Mrs. Al Porter, Mrs. Bess Griffith, Mrs. Celia Young, Mrs. Flossie Weller, comprised the menu committee.

Tom Artbrell took care of the candy and peanut treats for the children.

Special guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Andy Lohr of Baltimore, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hoyt of Bellevue, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Jones of St. Cloud, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Pierce Craft and two children of New Brighton, and Mrs. Nettie Agnew of Phoenix, Ariz.

TO KEEP DEFENSE BUILDING GOING

THE defense program is so dependent on building construction and adequate housing of workers that the agreement announced by OPM with the AFL unions should be a source of satisfaction to all.

According to its terms, there is to be no stoppage of work on account of jurisdictional disputes "or for any other cause." All grievances are to be settled by conciliation or arbitration. A joint Government-AFL board will interpret the agreement and move to compose any differences and misunderstandings that may arise.

In consideration of this pledge by the unions, uniform rates of pay for overtime are fixed on the basis of a 40-hour week for single shifts and two and a half hours less where two or more shifts are employed. The government agencies will seek to eliminate WPA labor from projects employing union members.

This agreement recalls the similar arrangement, in principle, negotiated with the shipbuilding industry and the plan in preparation for the aircraft industry. It comes at a time when the threat of serious tie-ups has hung over vital army and navy projects.

Extension of this plan to include all plants engaged in defense work would render proposed preventive legislation unnecessary. It is by far the most sensible way to insure uninterrupted production, without injustice to the workers, and will be particularly welcome if it wipes out those pernicious jurisdictional strikes—disputes between unions—which leave the employer helpless between the warring factions.

WHILE RUSSIA HOLDS

In the beginning, the German high command formulated a schedule of conquest which called for the crushing defeat of the Russian armies within one month. More than a month has passed and the two major objectives of the campaign—route of the Russian forces and the capture of Moscow—have not been achieved.

There is no basis for excessive optimism in reports from the East. Recalling the brilliant performances of the Nazi armies during the last two years, the mastery strategy of the high command, the audacity and resourcefulness with which it has been translated into accomplishment, it would be foolish for those who hope for their ultimate defeat to underestimate their power.

The war in Russia is of paramount importance at the moment. In some aspects the situation is heartening. There can be no questioning the fury of the German attack, the profligacy with which lives have been expended, the great material destruction wrought by both sides. But the maps show that Moscow is as distant from the invaders as it was a week ago, that Leningrad still stands and that Kiev, whose fall has been declared imminent by the Germans for weeks, is still fighting off the encircling Nazi columns.

The experts, almost without exception, predicted that the war in Russia would be of short duration, just a matter of a few weeks. And the experts have been quite consistently wrong for nearly two years. The failure of Russia to fold up after a month of fighting suggests that they may be wrong again.

Admittedly, Germany has achieved victories in the five weeks that have passed since her troops first crossed the Russian frontier. All of what was Poland is now in the possession of her armies and the line of the invaders now runs roughly from west of Leningrad to Smolensk and to a point west of Kiev. But even the Nazis themselves cannot contend that they are closer to victory, a victory that contemplates the subjugation of England, than they were a year ago.

WAR OF NERVES

Just as the walls of Jericho in the Bible story fell flat at a shout from Joshua's army after that army had encircled the city thirteen times, so Hitler's morale is expected by his foes to crumble in the occupied countries before the letter "V," symbol of ultimate victory against the tyrant.

The most romantic novelist never dreamed of such a gigantic war of nerves as today is actually in progress. It involves the surreptitious scribbling of "V" on fences, sidewalks, doors of buildings, the dusty hoods of German military cars, even on tanks and the wings of fighting planes at rest. And its concomitant is the banging, whistling, tapping, ringing, tooting of "V" in Morse code—three quick dots and a dash.

Mass psychology is ages older than its name. It was practiced long before the dawn of written history by astrologers, priests, wizards and voodoo men. England, whence this new plan to break down German morale is directed, covered before a form of mass psychology in the days of the Druids and their human sacrifices. But to employ it today, through the use of a single symbol by tens of millions of conquered people, urged on in the dark by short wave radio—there is an example of imaginative effort to strike the stars.

Hitler's reaction to the "V" campaign has been to seek to appropriate it as the Germans' own, too late to fool the conquered or perhaps the Germans themselves. Every few minutes the German radio taps out "V's" in Morse code. The "V" is said to stand for "Victoria," not a German word at all, as Hitler's own slogan. "Sieg" is the German word for victory.

The prompt recognition of the British campaign by this effort to thwart it is of itself an indication of already frazzled nerves.

Britain's "V" as a symbol of victory will be more potent if the pointed end is dropped on Hitler.

Some scientists tell us that man ascended from the monkey, and judging from the actions of a lot of men just now we wonder whether "ascend" is the proper word.

Every time a government official issues another statement to the effect that strikes are not interfering with defense production, the dope's statement appears next to a news story chronicling that another strike has been called.

It is predicted that in the future glass will be used for making automobile tires rather than rubber. Glass ought to make it much easier to see how much air there is in the tire.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

ALL BULLIES ON SAME LEVEL.

Up to now, what I have said about bullies referred chiefly to boys, from about 6 to 12. Today we shall consider the girl bully. She essentially, is not unlike the boy bully. Also, girls, as well as boys, gang up on another girl, even on a boy. Girl bullies, like boy bullies, usually are cowards. Being unable to protect themselves or compete with others in accepted ways they pick on weaker and more timid children and gain feelings of superiority and relief from tormenting children who can be easily browbeaten, overawed, and dominated.

Some boys are victims of the girl bully because they have been taught never to hit a girl. I wish parents would make no such sex discrimination concerning children before the teen age. There is just as good reason for a boy to hit a girl as to hit a boy who attacks him. Let us be sensible and tell the boy to defend himself with his fists when assaulted either by a girl or boy. Anyway, it's good for the girl bully to learn to mind her own business.

Loss Of Self-Control
Suppose you have a girl eight or nine years old who is in constant physical fear of one or several other girls about her age. This child of yours may not have the courage to take her part against these bullies. She should avoid them when she can, but never resort to sticks and stones nor to abusive language. Unfortunately the boy or girl who is teased and bullied loses self control and with a mixture of violent fear and rage will cry, call the assailant names and do all sorts of wild things to no effect.

Often the intimidated child will fight from ambush, or do and say sneaking, ugly things in relation to the one or several children who teased and bullied him. It is very difficult to keep this child who is teased and bullied from acting so; indeed, it is hard for him to keep himself from it.

Be Tactful
It is not easy for us to be discreet and tactful toward the bully girl and her parents. When our child is the victim. We need to help this bully feel worth while and win her respect. Then she might become a protector rather than a tormentor of a younger child.

If you have a daughter who is a bully, help her cultivate more skills and find more useful. Play up all her good traits and achievements. Be more liberal with genuine affection for her and help her attract more girls and boys her age to your home.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. My son, his father and I would like to read about vacations what ones offer opportunities, how to prepare for them and how to get a job and hold it. Can you suggest some good books on these lines?

A. I have prepared such a set of books and will be glad to send you a copy of this list if you will write me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three cent stamp on it.

Q. What are some good indoor games for children 6 to 12?
A. Dominoes, checkers, chess, Chinese checkers, krokenole, karems, Pitt, monopoly, flinch, and various other card games.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt addressed men and women in charge of voluntary participation in civilian defense activities. "People in this country, unfortunately, haven't got enough idea of what modern war means. It is a war between populations and not alone armies."

SAN FRANCISCO—Wendell L. Wilkie urges a dynamic, positive defense for maintaining freedom against Hitler's threat of world domination. "We must not be afraid to act, and we must be prepared to act swiftly and suddenly."

LOS ANGELES—Gen. Robert E. Wood, head of the America First committee, challenges the declaration that America is in extreme danger. "I have carefully read 'Mein Kampf' many times and I find a clear concept of Hitler's intentions in Europe but there is no threat of world domination there. I maintain that we are not in danger."

NEW YORK—Dr. Luis Fernando Guachalla, Bolivian minister to the United States, stresses unity of the Americas in observance of the 158th anniversary of the birth of Simon Bolivar, South American liberator. "There may exist differences in form and application respecting our commitments of common defense, but there is no room for any fundamental doubts."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:20. Sun rises tomorrow 4:53.

A college professor says women, not men, own and spend 70 per cent of the private wealth in this country. So far we have nothing to complain about along that line.

Even if we do not get much truth out of Europe, the lies are interesting.

Here in the paper is a man comparing men with eggs—good, bad and ugly. Yet he overlooked the phrase "Absolutely Fresh"—sometimes applicable to both eggs and men.

SMILE
The thing that gets the farthest towards making life worth while That costs the least and does the most Is just a pleasant smile.

The smile that bubbles from a heart That loves its fellow men, Will drive away the clouds of gloom And coax the sun again.

It's full of mirth and goodness, too, With human kindness bent, It's worth a million dollars And it doesn't cost a cent.

In thinking of civilization many little things are overlooked like cutting low hanging limbs over sidewalks, and cutting weeds along the walks.

A great many people must be getting in their winter coat now. We get this idea from the number of lumps we see lying on the streets that dropped from trucks.

That's a beautiful phrase. "Our American way of life." Sounds good but we don't seem to be of one mind when it comes to defining it.

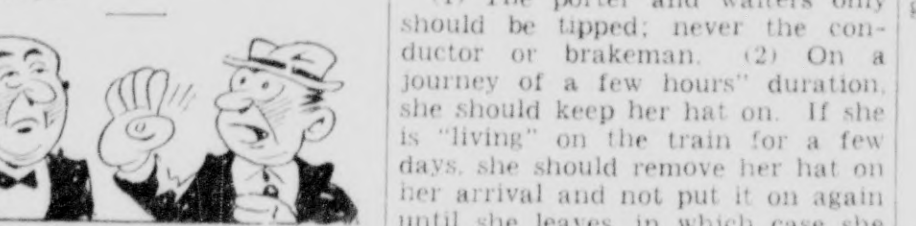

Few people want this country actually to get into war. Yet all or nearly all, seem willing that we fight by proxy-hand the other fellow a brick and hold his coat.

THE DEFENSE TESTS.
"Sued for $100," the defendant brought five witnesses to court to prove he paid it back. By this time it had developed into such a grudge fight that both sides were willing to swear to anything. "Just to prove what a liar he is," said the plaintiff. "I never even loaned it to him."

One can see most anything while taking a ride over the country on a Sunday. Not long ago we saw a couple of chaps painting a house on Sunday.

We all sincerely hope our boys will not have to stay longer than one year in the army.

The modern bath room makes it unnecessary for some of the aluminum things people had to have in the old days.

The rich are lucky. Haughty clerks can't shame them into paying more than they can afford.

Kansas City claims the best jail in Missouri. This town also has a pretty good jail, but we brag of the beautiful outside only.

Very often the best cure for the liquor habit is lack of money.

After so many young girls have been murdered in this country in the past few years it's up to all the young gals to watch their step.

If everything we did in life was printed on our foreheads there would not be so many reformers out in the daytime.

The gasoline used by joyriders in this country would be enough to run all the battleships needed to fight in the war.

Winfield, Kansas, July 21st, 1941.
Mr. Fred L. Rantz
New Castle, Penna.

Dear Fred:

I just that I would write you a few lines—hope you haven't forgotten me. By way of introduction I might say I knew you awfully well, when Billy Patterson drove a span of fine horses, that could run like rein-deers, and every morning we could see a drove of cattle, going out north Jefferson St. to pasture between the town line and Henry Crocker's farm.

You remember we used to chase Tommy Pee's pigs out of the gutter on Washington St., so we could wash the mud off of our feet. Don't you mind when we had to keep the cows from eating the hay off of the wagons, while Grand Pa Dickey weighed it—you know when he kept the weigh-scales, on the diamond by the big beach tree. I knew you when we used to listen to Joe Johnson, and Jim Waltenbaugh, trying to see which of them could tell the most truth, about catching fish. You remember how mad Jim Gribble used to get when we would say rabbit to him. If you don't remember some day when I am back there I will tell you the story.

Do you remember when one of the popular sports was to tie a rag around a paper box and lay it on the side-walk and see how far you could kick it. Well some body tied a rag around a brick and layed it on the side-walk, and George Crawford came along, and what he did to that brick did to George, made him a little reckless, in the use of bad language.

Well I think I have identified myself now, so you will not think I am some confidence man, pretending that I had lived in New Castle at one time.

Fred could you tell me what became of the clock Mr. Rohrer took me to see it when I was small boy. It was a wonderful clock.

Well I see by the paper you will be celebrating old times day pretty soon. I long to be present at one of those occasions before I die.

One more question, can you tell me how "Bunt" Mayne managed to fool the people of New Castle twice? Why that bird used to come out to our place and take our chestnuts when we were not looking. I remember one time Joe McFarlin, Bert Mayne, and his brother Fred, came out to our place, and climbed our chestnut trees, and they just cleaned them clean. Telem I forgive.

The New Castle News beats all the news papers we have ever read, and I will swear to it.

Yours Affectionately,
T. F. MAITLAND.

Jap Cabinet Has Washington Guessing
New Japanese Setup Is Being Studied
Kenoye Adopts "Wait And See" Policy

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, July 26—Japan's recent cabinet shakeup still is being minutely studied in Washington, but it doesn't mean much yet to American statesmen. Some of our analysts are of the opinion that it was a pro-Axis and anti-British reorganization, which, incidentally, would make it anti-American. Some believe it was more anti-Russian than any other one thing, though that too would make it more or less anti-British and anti-American, since the British now are actually allied with the Russians and we've wished 'em well in their fight with the Axis. Some of our observers think that anti-American alterations in the Mikado's advisership constituted the essence of the overhauling. Another school of thought takes the view that the changes were made less because of foreign considerations than to hasten the totalitarianization of Japan itself.

The Japs' psychology is so peculiar from an occidental standpoint, that the preliminaries to all their programs are pretty puzzling to onlookers from such capitals as our own and Britain's, until the programs begin conspicuously to manifest themselves. Maybe they puzzle European Axis leaderships also.

Prince Fumimaro Konoye, who succeeded himself as premier, has not outlined his reorganized policy. "Wait and see" is his keynote. His fellow cabinetiers are as uncommunicative as he is.

Why We're Disliked

That Overdue "Close Look"

Washington, July 26.

THE other day, viewing the large new appropriations for defense asked for by the President, the Secretary of the Treasury was quoted in the United States News as declaring that "the time has come to take a close look at the fiscal picture." Now, Mr. Morgenthau is the last man anyone would suspect of frivolity—particularly in financial affairs—and sarcasm certainly is not his dish.

HENCE, it may be accepted that when he made that statement he did so in all seriousness. But, what does it imply? Normally, it could be interpreted as meaning that up to now there has been no close examination of the Federal finances; that the facts about our fiscal affairs have been only casually surveyed by those responsible. Yet, Mr. Morgenthau hardly could mean it that way, as that would constitute an indictment not only of himself but of his chief, whose slightest wish is his law.

UNDOUBTEDLY, it was a curious statement to come from the head of the Treasury; but it is not worth while worrying about whether there were any hidden implications in the Morgenthau words or whether he was just being naive. It is not even worth while to point out that the "close look" which he now urges is long overdue and that, while the present is its most appealing aspect, for several years it has not been possible for anyone with an unclouded mind to take a near view of this picture without alarm.

RATHER, it seems better to avoid these and other obvious comments and just be grateful that, at last, Mr. Morgenthau thinks the time has come to grapple with the realities—if that is what he does think. Because it seems incredible that a man in his position who sits down and looks closely at the picture will not feel impelled to action. There is not space here to present the details of what a look would reveal, but it is possible to mention several things which even a nearsighted man would be sure to see. Outstanding, of course, is the fact that for nearly seven years there has been no coherent nor consistent Federal fiscal policy, except that of expensively expending the Federal Government and pouring the Treasury billions out in all directions, far faster than they could be taken in.

THIS was not Mr. Morgenthau's policy. It was wished on him and he had no alternative to acquiescence except to resign. He could not bring himself to do that, but there is no doubt that he has suffered. With Mr. Morgenthau now will see in a close look is that this spending policy, before the war, had piled (Continued On Page Seven)

Happigrams

Patriotism is taken too much for granted, particularly by those who live in the big cities.

The other day on a vacation trip, we stopped for lunch at a hotel in a little Virginia town.

The Kiwanis Club happened to meet there that day.

First came the usual greetings, handshakes and banter. We weren't much interested.

Then the whole crowd stood at attention. The head man asked them to sing "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

If you could have been the earnestness, heard the fervor of their voices, the sincerity of these men, you would have agreed with us that this was America.

BIRTHDAYS OF FAMOUS AMERICANS

(Compiled by Encyclopedia Britannica)

JULY 26

1739—George Clinton, brigadier-general in the Continental army, Governor of New York, and Vice President of the United States, at Little Britain, N. Y. He was Governor of New York for 18 successive years, ending in 1795, and he served another three years from 1801 to 1804. He sought nomination for the presidency in 1808, but the honor went to Madison.

1856—William Rainey Harper, educator and educator, at New Concord, O. He was only 19 years old when he received his Ph.D. from Yale in 1875. He left a professorship at Yale in 1891 to become the first president of the newly established University of Chicago.

1858—Edward Mandell House, statesman and diplomat, at Houston, Tex. He was an intimate friend of President Wilson, and during the World War period he influenced the course of American foreign policy through close contact with American ambassadors abroad and in intimacy with European statesmen.

Central Church To Direct Service At Cascade Park

Central Church To Conduct Park Service Sunday

Dr. Robert Meade Patterson
To Preach At Service In Cascade Park At 7 P. M.

CHOIR-ORCHESTRA TO PRESENT MUSIC

Dr. Robert Meade Patterson and the congregation of Central Presbyterian church will be in charge of the service to be held in the community building at Cascade park Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

These union services, being held each Sunday evening during the summer months, are under the auspices of the New Castle Ministerial Association.

For his sermon theme, Dr. Patterson has chosen "Modern Trinity of God." He will be assisted in the service by other clergy in attendance at the services, and all ministers present will be seated on the platform.

The choir and orchestra of Central church are planning to present several special musical selections. E. L. Rowley is director of music and will be in charge of the musical portion of the program. Miss Helen E. Evans, church organist, will preside at the piano.

Increased interest is being shown in the park services with good attendances at all services, thus far. Regardless of weather conditions, a comfortable meeting place is assured those who attend services in the community building. The building is situated near the parking lot, also.

The remainder of the union service schedule is as follows: August 3, Rev. W. V. McLean; August 10, Rev. W. A. Thornton; August 17, Rev. J. Calvin Rose; August 24, Rev. C. J. Burton; August 31, The Ministerial (Colored Brethren) Alliance.

Three Sessions Of Conference Sunday

Rev. John Fulton In Charge Of Music Sunday Evening;
Bible School At 9:45

The sixth annual summer Bible conference of the Calvary Gospel Tabernacle will feature three special sessions on Sunday beginning at 11 a. m., 2:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. The regular Bible school session will begin at 9:45 with the superintendent, A. P. Robb, in charge. Rev. Milton B. Lindberg will be the conference speaker. He is superintendent of the Chicago Hebrew Mission and his illustrated prophetic messages on Palestine and its people have been attracting large crowds nightly during the past week. Mrs. Lindberg will be heard at the Sunday morning service, speaking on the 49th chapter of Isaiah's prophecy.

Rev. Lindberg's subjects as announced for the afternoon and evening sessions are "The Jews and Armageddon" and "Jonah's Message for the End of the Age." Mr. Lindberg's sermon subject for this evening will be "How to Reach Israel for Christ."

Rev. John Fulton, pastor of the Portersville and Mountville U. P. churches, and his congregations will attend the Sunday evening service in a body. Mr. Fulton will be in charge of congregational singing and special musical selections.

Homecoming Sunday At Pulaski Church

Former Pastor To Speak; Services At 10 A. M., 2:30 And 7:30 P. M.

Pulaski Methodist church will hold its annual Homecoming Day this Sunday with special services for the entire day. The preachers for the day will be Rev. Earl Jennings of Cooperstown, Pa., former pastor of the church; Dr. J. A. Cousins of New Castle, pastor of Croton Methodist church, and the pastor, J. G. Cousins.

The music committee under the direction of Mrs. Francis Taylor and Charles Wick, has prepared an attractive musical program for these services.

A picnic lunch will be served in the church basement at 12:30 and at 5:30. The ladies of the church will serve hot coffee free. Mrs. Gaylord Cameron, chairman of the dining room committee, will be in charge.

The program for the day is as follows:

Church school, 10 a. m.; Roy Bilger, superintendent; morning worship, 11, pastor preaching; picnic lunch, 12:30 p. m.; afternoon service, 2:30 p. m.; J. A. Cousins preaching; picnic supper, 5:30 p. m.; evening service, 7:30 p. m.; Rev. Earl Jennings preaching. A special feature of this service will be a memorial service for those of the homecoming services of other years who have died during the past year.

Russell Michael will be general chairman and treasurer for the day.

Vacation School At Pentecostal Church

On Monday, July 28, at 9 o'clock, a daily vacation Bible school will be conducted at the First Pentecostal church, corner Pearson and Epworth streets.

All children, including the ages of five through 17, are invited to attend this free school. The school will include singing, Bible stories, handwork and supervised play. The aim of the school will be character building.

Sessions will be held each morning, except Saturday, from 9 until 12. The school will convene from July 28 through August 15, covering a period of three weeks.

The Bible school will be conducted by Miss Phyllis Dicks and her co-worker, Miss Dorothy Ziegler. Both of these young ladies have spent two years at Central Bible Institute, Springfield, Mo. They will be assisted by Mrs. Mary Etta Diana, Miss Mary Freed, Mrs. Nancy Sarbo, Mrs. Rose Bender, Miss Jeanne Wallace, Miss Mary Benigas and Mrs. Jean Freed.

The school will close with a graduation exercise at which time certificates will be awarded to those children whose attendance and scholarship merit them. A display of handwork and accomplishments of the children will also be available for the parents and those interested.

Rev. Nesbitt Takes New Beaver Charge

Rev. E. Marcellus Nesbitt has arrived from Greeley, Colo., and assumes the pastorate of the Beaver United Presbyterian church Sunday, July 27. He succeeds Dr. Charles Fulton, who has retired.

Rev. Nesbitt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nesbitt, of Walpole, has preached here several times. He has been pastor of the Greeley U. P. church for a number of years.

Mrs. Nesbitt and their two children are here with him. He will preach for three Sundays at Beaver and then depart for a short vacation.

REVIVAL MEETINGS CONTINUE IN TENT

Revival meetings, under the auspices of the Pilgrim Holiness church, will continue for another week in the form of an old time gospel tent meeting, the tent being located on Cunningham avenue, near Ben Franklin school.

Meetings, so far, have been well attended. Evangelist G. H. Schull is delivering the message each evening, with musical selections being presented by Jay and Gordon Lucas of Lima, O.

Three services are scheduled for Sunday at 11 a. m., 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. There will be a service this evening at 7:30 o'clock also.

Hope To Link Atlantic With Mediterranean

France Plans Canal To Circumvent British Control At Gibraltar

WOULD SHORTEN ROUTE TO EAST

(International News Service)

PARIS—Military as well as economic considerations may shortly induce the French government to begin construction of the Two-Seas, linking the Atlantic and the Mediterranean.

As tension with England grows, it is being pointed out here in governmental circles and in the press that the construction of the canal would render useless the fortifications and the British control of the western gate of the Mediterranean at Gibraltar.

It is also recalled that plans for the canal, which have been discussed periodically for a century or more, have several times been pigeon-holed due to British opposition.

Point to U. S. Error

Engineers warn that France should not make the mistake of the United States in the Panama canal, the narrowness of which limits the size of warships that can go thru, so that Japan with its new 42,000-ton ships had a strategic naval advantage. They point to the fact that Germany, too, has recently been obliged to deepen and otherwise improve the Kiel canal, which links the North Sea to the Baltic.

Modern construction methods would not only reduce the estimated cost of the canal but would shorten the time required for the building.

Important as is the strategic advantage, the commercial aspects are even more attractive. The canal would shorten the Maritine route to the Far East from Northern Europe by about 600 kilometers and save three or four days. Commercial traffic has been estimated at 100 million tons a year, or some 30,000 ships, comparable to that of the Suez and Panama canals. This would soon permit the cost to be repaid.

Plans long ago prepared proposed that the canal follow the line of the canal du Midi, 150 miles long, constructed by Paul Riquet in 1666-1681. Indeed the old canal may simply be deepened and broadened for sea-going ships of all sizes. The Canal du Midi, also known as the Canal des Deux-Mers, starts at Toulouse and passes Villeneuve, Castelnau, Carcassonne and Narbonne to the Mediterranean, with a branch eastward by Beziers to Arde. The expanded canal would probably follow the Narbonne line while the Garonne would also have to be deepened and improved at least between Bordeaux and Toulouse.

Both Bordeaux and Toulouse would profit greatly from the project as would also Marseilles and other cities and ports of southern France.

Welles To Confer With Soviet Mission

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 26—Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles will confer today with a special Soviet military mission on plans for the delivery of orders by Russia for American war supplies and materials.

The mission, which arrived in New York today and flew to Washington, is headed by Lt. Gen. Philip I. Golikov. Another member of the mission is Col. Alexander Respin. Soviet Ambassador Constantine Oumansky will sit in at today's conferences.

Welles said that it is not contemplated that orders for Soviet war supplies will be made under the lease-lend program.

BUS SERVICE MAY START IN CITY THIS FALL

transpired at the conference between city, street car and Public Utilities commission representatives, the company will remove or have an independent contractor remove all rails. The slots then will be filled with concrete. It was indicated that if the commission grants the petition for the change next week, buses may be operating in November.

Today council authorized a statement as follows:

Council Statement

The state highway department has always insisted that when the rails were removed from state highways, the ties must be taken out also and new pavement put in. The company objected that when they stopped using the streets for street cars, their liability to rebuild streets ended, that none of the state highways were less than 30 years old, that all of them were worn out and needed now to be rebuilt and that when they were rebuilt they would be good for 30 years or more, during none of which time would any of them be used by the street car company.

At the conference it was suggested by the city that the street car company make a contract with an independent contractor to remove all rails in the city and to fill the crevices or grooves with concrete and thus satisfy the demands of the rule of the public utility company. The company then offered as it had done, continually to turn over to the city all its assets and have the city assume the responsibility for the removal of the rails.

The council then stated finally that it would not assume any responsibility for the removal of rails or the restoration of the streets; and thereupon the company's representatives agreed that the company would assume this responsibility and the whole matter was then settled upon the very terms for which the city first contended.

The Public Utility commission is on vacation from next Wednesday for five weeks, so that any action that is taken must be taken quickly, or no buses may be had. The council therefore returned to New Castle and the mayor called at meeting at 8 o'clock last night at which all members of council were present and there was introduced an amendment to the original ordinance, whereby the terms upon which the old franchise ordinances are repealed are as follows:

Friday morning there was a conference in the offices of the Public Utility commission in the city-county building in Pittsburgh.

Those present were the commission, the Honorable Thomas Buchanan, to whom the applications of the New Castle Electric Company and the Shenango Valley Transportation company have been referred by the commission. Mr. William Muldoon, representing the street car and bus companies, with his attorney, Douglas Storey of Harrisburg, and Councilmen Alexander, Davies, Dunlap and Pink. The city engineer, Glen Throop, was also present and the two solicitors for the city.

Mr. Buchanan stated that it was a rule of the commission that no application such as this would be approved until some responsible party would assume to remove all of the rails from all the streets and to put the streets in good passable condition.

In view of this rule of the commission, the contract made with the city by the Traction Company could not possibly be approved, for it made no provision for the removal of rails from state highways within the city.

Mr. Muldoon then read a letter from the manufacturer, which has the order for thirteen buses, that unless the order was already confirmed at once, the buses could not be delivered until late in 1942.

The city councilmen have all along insisted that the city would not assume any responsibility for the removal of rails from the state highways, because their engineer had advised them that such removal might involve them in the expenditure of from $50,000.00 to $75,000.00.

When the matter of the abandonment of street cars and the installation of buses was first considered, the members of council all insisted that the company should provide for the removal of all rails and the filling in of the crevices or grooves with concrete.

1. The said company shall remove all of the rails of the said company in or upon the surface of the following streets, viz:

South Mill street
Mahoning avenue
Cedar street
Clayton street
Beaver street

and shall fill in with concrete the crevices or grooves due to the said removal, on or before the first day of May, 1942.

2. The company shall remove all the wire, trolleys, poles, transmission boxes and other property and equipment which it has maintained in any city street and upon said property above the surface of the ground within three (3) months after the final approval of this ordinance by the Public Utility Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the discontinuance of street car service.

The mayor and every member of council has been zealous to get the city streets rid of the old cars and the broken rails, and to have modern bus service substituted; but everyone of them has been determined that this should be done without one cent of cost to the city and without the city assuming any responsibility, which now rests on the Traction Company or upon any other person, body or state department.

By the agreement now made the mayor and council are satisfied, for they got everything they asked for in the first instance. There has been one great danger all along, which every one concerned was conscious of, and that was that the street cars are being operated at a loss and every day more and more of the assets of the company are being used up. There was always the real danger that delay might force the company into the hands of a receiver and had that happened, both the city and highway department would have been left with the old rails in their respective streets and there would have been no person liable for their removal and nothing with which to pay for that removal. That danger has been fully avoided by the settlement arrived at.

As the case now stands, when the street car service is abandoned, the Street Car Company, or its contractor, will remove all rails from the city maintained streets and fill the grooves with concrete to the satisfaction of the city engineer. It is presumed that the Public Utility Commission will order them to do the same on the state highways.

About 150,000 In Philippines Added To Army

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 26—President Roosevelt's order places approximately 150,000 trained and semi-trained Filipinos subject to military command of Maj. Gen. George Grunert, commander of defense forces of the U. S. Philippine department.

Of this figure, 140,000 are partially-trained reserves of the Philippine army and between ten and twenty thousand of them now are in uniform.

The presidential order also places an additional 7,000 men, members of the Philippine constabulary, under Gen. Grunert's command. A force of upwards of 10,000 Philippine scouts, an integral part of the United States army but limited to service in the Philippines, are also included under the order.

Here's New Victory "V" Hair-Do

That "V" symbol of Allied victory over the Axis powers now gets into one's hair—literally. That is, if you adopt the new victory "V" hair-do so charmingly displayed here by Miss Alice Alexander, a New York model. The "V" coiffure was designed by Laura De Gez, New York hair stylist. The hair is pointed at the sides over forehead, coming to point at the crown of the head, forming a "V" which is outlined with braid-like flowers. Sides are swept up high in wing effect, creating a "V" at the back of the head.

Says Aluminum Shortage Is Not Solved In Nation

(International News Service)

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., July 26—The nationwide door-to-door campaign for scrap aluminum "must not be construed as a solution to the aluminum shortage problem," N. A. Zonarch, international president of the Aluminum Workers of America, CIO, warned today.

Pointing out that the shortage of virgin aluminum is still a vexing problem, he said that some government officials "were so over-anxious to put the scrap collection campaign over the top that they let slip misleading statements about the intended use of scrap aluminum."

He cited as an example the claim that scrap aluminum would be used in constructing aircraft, which, he said, was "stretching a point."

Pittsburgh Garbage Drivers On Strike

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 26—A strike, apparently called because of grievance demands, halted collection of garbage in Pittsburgh today.

Some 300 drivers for the city incinerator plant walked out, and mechanics at the 29th street plant refused to cross a two-man picket line.

The men are affiliated with the AFL-Refuse Drivers and Collectors union, local 609. Union officials refused to discuss the strike pending a scheduled meeting with Dudley C. Agar, managing engineer.

A big job makes a little man bigger, but never as big as he feels.

Japanese Bond Prices Take Drop

Freezing Of Assets And Business Control Affect Bonds Of Japan

SITUATION BRINGS MANY PROBLEMS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 26—Japanese bonds fell to new lows on the stock exchange today as mutual credit freezing by the United States and Japan dealt a death blow to trade with one another.

Hasty conferences were called behind closed doors in Japanese banks and business houses here.

While the Japanese bonds fell, American Rayon and Celanese securities shot up to record highs.

Morito Morishima, Japanese consul, expressed hope Washington would issue licenses for his countrymen to continue business operations here.

Hopes For Nominal Trade

He said: "I trust the United States will adopt a moderate attitude toward Japanese merchants here. I believe it is necessary for our two countries to maintain trade relations as far as possible."

"My staff of about 20 and I have no intention of leaving; we'll carry on as usual."

"And I'm sure my government will explain satisfactorily its agreement with Indo-China. It is unfortunate so many Americans do not understand our policy."

As usual, the silk market was closed today for the Saturday weekend. This country has been importing about $100,000,000 worth from Japan yearly.

Arthur C. Shorey, a vice president of the National City Bank, declared the bank is neither recalling its American staffs nor closing down its branches in Tokyo, Yokohama and Kobe.

"There's too much going on to talk," reported the spokesman for the Japanese financial commission. The Yokohama specie bank said there had been no rush to withdraw funds here as was experienced at its Los Angeles branch because the New York branch does not take deposits.

"U. S. examiners have taken charge and are now going over our books," the bank reported.

The Mitsubishi bank bulletined: "A very delicate situation and one that leaves us in a very difficult position."

A friend said Seitz had appeared in good spirits earlier in the day. He is survived by his wife, one son and three sisters.

There are two kinds of people. Those who do things, and those who say: "Does it bother you if I look over your shoulder?"

Test Learners Here Tuesday

Applicants Must Possess The Qualifications To Win Driver's Card

NO 'SKULLDUGGERY' USED BY POLICE

State Motor police will conduct another test of prospective motor vehicle operators beginning at nine a. m. Tuesday and it is likely that a large class will be present. Last Tuesday 134 received the test. More than 90 won an operator's license. All applicants should seek the test as early Tuesday as possible.

The applicants must be accompanied by a licensed operator, possess the registration card for the car to be used in the test. The licensed operator must have his card, likewise the learner's permit. All must be signed with ink.

The applicants give data pertaining to name, age, address and physical condition following which they are tested as to vision. They read a chart, then are examined for color blindness.

Following this test the car is examined for defects, such as illumination, front and rear. Windshield wipers are necessary, also rear-view mirrors. The mechanism and tires must be good.

A driving test is then given. The car must be turned in the carway without the wheels, front or rear, touching the curb. Sampson street, where the examinations are conducted, is a narrow street.

Examiner Decides Fitness

When the driving test has been concluded the applicant is then examined as to his or her knowledge of motor laws. The candidates must know the laws.

The examination operator sums up then to whether the applicant is one fit to drive an auto in Pennsylvania. If so the learner's permit is stamped with approval. If not the test must be taken again.

The applicants should go to the station confident and not nervous. Some became "alarmed at the uniform," they claim. "There is no reason for this because the examiners are very courteous."

Governor Signs Numerous Bills

Approves Group Of Measures Passed By Recent Legislative Session

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 26.—Gov. Arthur H. James on Friday signed a bill giving the state department of health central jurisdiction over records pertaining to divorce, marriage annulment, and adoption, with court clerks required henceforth to forward their certificates of decrees to Harrisburg.

The governor also approved:

An act authorizing Scranton taxpayers to inspect the city's books and records "at any reasonable time."

An act enabling tax collectors and receivers to make returns to the county commissioners of unpaid taxes assessed on stated lands and validating the liens of such taxes.

An act authorizing a commission to study recreational facilities in Philadelphia.

An act providing that taxes on unseated lands shall be collected and returned in the same manner and at the same time as taxes on seated lands.

An act further prescribing the method by which second class townships may be classified as first class townships.

An act authorizing municipalities to file liens against real estate beyond the municipal limits for certain municipal rates and validating the liens heretofore filed.

Plan To Import Army Of Workers Into Beaver County

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The Beaver county, Pa., housing project to provide 900 homes for industrial defense workers today had presidential approval.

Under the 900-home program 50 homes will be built at Aliquippa; 250 in the Ambidge area; 100 at Vanport; 125 at East Rochester; 175 at Rochester; 170 at Beaver Falls, and 30 at Midland. It was announced.

National defense officials at the same time estimated that 8,500 new workers will be imported into Beaver county by the middle of 1942 for defense jobs.

Defense Housing Coordinator C. F. Palmer said that "the Beaver county locality is one of the key industrial centers of the defense program."

He estimated that approximately 4,000 men would have to be imported by the end of 1941 and by the middle of 1942 an additional 4,500 men will be recruited from outside the area.

Palmer added that there were "virtually no existing vacancies in the area and doubling up is increasing rapidly."

Beaver is the site of a new Curtis-Wright propeller plant which is expected to start taking men late this fall. Ground was broken for the plant early in the summer.

Monday Kiddies Day At Cascade

Monday is Kiddies' Day, and if Old Sol blossoms forth as warmly as he did Friday, it is probable that at least 1,500 kiddies will be in Cascade Park pool. According to attaches, the cost of bathing in the pool or riding the concessions is only three cents.

Advertiser is still more specific as to the United States. It says that President Roosevelt activities threaten Japanese safety. This paper was founded and run for years by an American, B. W. Fleisher, but the government finally forced him to sell out to it, and since then, it's been a foreign office organ.

Kokum's editorial suggests that the Japs especially hate Britain, China and Russia, and the United States inclusively, not so much for ourselves alone as because our inclination's to be helpful to these three against the Axis. The Times and Advertiser, though, implies that we're the particular object of their animosity.

Yet it's noticeable that Yosuke Matsuka, previously foreign minister, was left out of the new cabinet. Admiral Teijuro Toyoda succeeded him. And ex-Minister Matsuka was notably anti-American, so his omission from the new alignment doesn't seem so unfriendly to us. Still, perhaps he was thrown overboard, not because he was anti-American, but because he concluded a Jap treaty with Russia, which the Japs traditionally dislike and which now is at war with the Axis.

Then there's the theory that expediting Jap totalitarianism was the prime object of the reorganization. It was begun even before the cabinet was rejiggered.

The military class' influence is more than a mere factor in Japanese politics. These chaps don't bother with elections. If they don't get what they want, they assassinate bally cabinet members.

It's no safe bet that they didn't order the reorganization.

Trouble Spots

There have been signs for some time that they're dissatisfied with the way things are going—with their lagging campaign in China, with the Jap-Russian pact, with the delay in a grab at the Dutch East Indies, Malaysia and Indo-Chinese territory, with America's doings in the Pacific, or something. Just what it might be is a matter of guesswork.

To anybody but Japs, who may see through the puzzle, it is, for fair, a situation to speculate on.

The other day Chairman Carl Vinson of the House of Representatives' naval affairs committee suggested the desirability of segregating our large Japanese population of Hawaii. Years ago, as a visitor in Honolulu, I asked Governor Frear, the territory's chief executive then, if the numbers of Jap residents there weren't a worry to him.

"Heck!" said the governor. "These boys came here especially to get away from Japanese conditions. You couldn't re-Japanese 'em with a shotgun."

Meet 'Miss California'

Miss Barbara Wilson

Beautiful, brunette Barbara Wilson, above, has been chosen "Miss California" in a beauty contest staged in Venice, Cal. Barbara, who is 18 and lives in Maywood, Cal., will be official hostess as "Miss California" to candidates in a national beauty contest which will climax the annual Venice beach Mardi Gras, Aug. 17.

The Great Game Of Politics

some 23 billions on top of a debt of 21 billions; that since the defense program was inaugurated billions more have been added until the total now approaches 50 billions; that when the arms spending, now planned, is completed we will be well on our way to 100 billions. This is a staggering prospect, but it is made more so by the inadequacy of the steps taken to meet it.

MR. MORGENTHAU is certain to see all this, and more, in the picture at which he now proposes to look closely. For example, he will see that the pending drastic tax bill to raise 12 billions of dollars, will fall far short of the Treasury needs; also that it is unscientific and political. He will see further that his own insistence and the President's supported by the head of the Federal Reserve Board, that every non-defense expenditure should be "paid to the bone" has been ignored. On the contrary, he will see that the normal governmental expenses have gone up instead of down and that his suggestion that a billion dollars might be lopped off has been forgotten.

AND if his eyes are good, Mr. Morgenthau also will see that the budget submitted by the president last January was a trick budget; that we are now operating on the double-budget system under which no one can tell just where we are at any time; that the recent farm parity act has pulled the financial structure still further out of shape, and that there are pending schemes, which if enacted, will tear it to pieces. Also, if he looks carefully, Mr. Morgenthau may discern in the picture such economic experiences as the Administration's silver policy and various useless and costly gadgets, such as the Office of Government Reports. There is also to be seen in the fiscal picture the swollen N.Y.A. and many evidences of waste in the expenditure of defense funds. It will likewise be difficult to overlook that there are extremely few inflationary curbs and many inflationary pressures.

ALTOGETHER, Mr. Morgenthau will not find it a pretty picture, but he is everlasting right when he says that it is time to take a close look at it. Perhaps the look will inspire, or frighten, him into action of a kind to make it less grotesque and terrible. No one knows better than he what needs to be done. The reason he has done so little to date is because he has had no encouragement from the White House to apply the principles of the multiplication table to Treasury transactions—rather the reverse. Perhaps the close view may induce him to stop looking upon such men as Senator Byrd and Mr. B. M. Baruch, who want to help, as enemies. Perhaps it may enable him to convince the President of the vital necessity of transforming the picture into something fit to look at. No better way of contributing to the national safety and strengthening the national defense could be found.

Western Pennsylvania Aiding National Defense With Production Of Oil

By LEONARD APPELBAUM
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 26.—The demands of the national defense program for lubricating oil today finds Pennsylvania leading the nation with 81,000 oil wells working on an "all-out" basis to produce 17,318,000 barrels annually, the department of commerce disclosed.

The state produces slightly less than 8 per cent of the nation's needs, far in excess of the production of New York, Ohio and West Virginia, other leading states in this field. The wells are located in the western tier, distributed chiefly in McKean, Venango, Forest, Potter and Warren counties with smaller wells in Lawrence, Allegheny and Washington counties.

"There are 81,500 oil wells in the commonwealth," a commerce department spokesman said, "with an estimated reserve of approximately 183,000,000 barrels."

This figure, compared to the nation's reserve of more than 18,400,000,000 barrels, is insignificant, he added, but he explained that Pennsylvania crude oil is valued far more than any other grade. "Liquid gold," he termed it.

Heavy demands, he stated, have been made on the oil wells of the state since the nation undertook to become the "arsenal of democracy," as lubricating oil is as essential as gasoline to the defense program and must be had in sufficient quantities to maintain machine production.

To this end, the wells have been working on an "all-out" basis until production has been raised to six-tenths of a barrel daily for each well. Some 4,800 barrels of crude oil are pumped out of the ground each day and rushed to the refineries where the impurities are eliminated.

Commerce officials explained that Pennsylvania crude is almost entirely free of foreign substances and has an excellent paraffin base. First tapped more than a century ago, the oil fields are the oldest in the country. In 1933 the oil was drained beyond the ordinary pumping level and production for a time was perilously low. Pressure pumping was then introduced, enabling the production level to be raised to a point where it exceeded the former level.

GERMAN PRESS KEEPS UP ATTACKS UPON ROOSEVELT

(International News Service)
BERLIN, July 26.—While German officials remained silent on United States economic measures against Japan, the German press resumed a vociferous anti-Roosevelt campaign today.

Newspapers published front-page articles accusing President Roosevelt of threatening the South American countries and plotting against their neutrality.

And The Expressmen Felt The Heat, Too

Railway Express Shipment Bel-lows Protest, And It Was Bull!

There's a little 'bull' in this story, Boss, but surely you can see we're not to blame—and neither is the bake-oven heat!

It was a bawling bull calf that made us write this, a little fellow who looked so lonesome, so forlorn in his crate on the shipping docks of the Railway Express Agency here. You couldn't blame the young fellow for loudly protesting, for the heat—well, everybody knows about it!

The 150-pound calf was being shipped to a Lawrence county farm from Masonic Homes, Elizabethtown, Pa. The mooing chap here Friday was heading toward the W. P. Wilson farm, New Wilmington, R. F. D. 1. Others have gone to different county farms.

The shipment was consigned to E. C. Wiggins, the vocational education advisor for Lawrence county schools.

Now the little fellow has new fields to roam at the Wilson farm, and the farmfolk are proud of him because he's of thoroughbred stock.

H. V. Smith, up for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor was fined $100 and costs and given thirty days in the county jail dating from July 20. He will be released upon payment of the fine and costs.

A short session of desertion and non-support court was held with but a few cases on hand to be disposed of.

The fish must be biting in Canada just now. Court Stenographer Font M. Rowland is in the wilds of the country to the north of us and usually picks the right time for big fish. Court Crier Clifford Vance is expecting enough fish brought back to him to cut the grocery budget down for a week or two.

Apparently there is still some doubt in the minds of some voters as to when they can register to vote. The answer is NOW. But only until the close of business on August 9. August 9 is the last day for voters to register but this includes young men and women who will become of age on or before September 10.

August 9 is also the last day an elector may change his party registration. There are still electors who have not registered and voters who have not changed their affiliation and wish to do so, August 9 is the dead line.

For replanting rises a dry spell should be selected and the rhizomes allowed to lie in the sun and bake for a while after having had most of the leaves and all diseased spots cut off.

Union Service At Christian Church

Rev. John E. Myers, Jr., Will Deliver Sermon Sunday Evening

Sixth in the summer series of Sunday evening union church services will be held at the Madison Avenue Christian church, West Madison avenue, Sunday.

Rev. John E. Myers, Jr., pastor of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, will deliver the sermon on this occasion, Rev. James E. Smith, pastor of the Christian church, will preside and he will be aided by Rev. D. J. Blaisdell of the Methodist church.

Congregations of the three churches will unite for this service.

NOVEL DISPLAY IN LIBRARY WINDOW

Miss Sarah Mervis, branch librarian, has arranged a novel display in the Mahoningtown Branch Library window on East Madison avenue.

The display feature vacation reading material and a large map of the United States centers the display. A poster suggests that no one go on his or her vacation without a sufficient supply of reading matter.

Wampum, Pa. R. F. D. 2; Rev. William Ralph Wigton, pastor.

Orange Ladies Have Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, July 26.—Following a practice of the Orange Ladies drill team, at 6:30 p. m. Friday the regular meeting of the Orange Ladies lodge was held in the Bank building rooms of the order at 7:45 p. m.

The drill team of the local lodge has been practicing in preparation for the drill which they will give at the Philadelphia meeting of the state organization, August 11 and 12.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Lottie Frye. Mrs. Minnie Davis, Butler, district deputy, and Mrs. Henrietta Davis, New Castle, state grand chaplain, were present for the session.

In memory of the late Robert E. Callahan, prominent Orangeman of the local lodge, the charter of the lodge was draped.

There will be another practice of the drill team on Tuesday evening, July 29, and the next regular session of the lodge has been called for August 8.

Lillyville Class Has Surprise Party

ELLWOOD CITY, July 26.—Members of the Forget-Me-Not class of the Lillyville Church of God held a surprise party for one of its members, Jean Bonzo, at her home yesterday evening.

The class arranged during the business meeting to hold a picnic on August 15, at the home of Clifford McDanel, Riverview. The regular class party will be at Elsie Wells', on August 23.

After the business meeting the group enjoyed games and contests, and a lunch was served later in the evening by Mrs. Bonzo.

Army Air Corps Men Are Housed In Boston Hotels

(International News Service)
BOSTON—Here's the "goldbrickers" dream come true. Army life in a hotel!

Housed in two Back Bay hotels are some of the nearly 300 Army Air Corps men studying aircraft first in the New England area to be certified by the Civil Aeronautics authority for the three-way training of civilians and army men.

This training is for (1) pilots; ground-school instruction; (2) mechanics school and (3) aircraft and engine repair.

The school will open a new $135,000 plant at East Boston airport April 14. It is now in temporary quarters in the Back Bay.

The men who are enjoying the luxury of hotel life are picked enlisted men and non-commissioned officers who are in intensive training to serve as crew-chiefs. They are undergoing a six-months course and passed rigid preliminary examinations before being accepted.

To earn this "goldbrickers paradise" therefore, the first requisite is not to be a goldbricker.

So, soldier, when the order comes to "hit the deck" in the too early dawn and the bunk spread insists on wrinkling and that speak of dust cludes the room, why, remember, study well your lessons and have a six-month stay in a Boston Back Bay hotel.

For there is army life as you would have it; a sweet-voice switchboard girl to wake you up; maids to do the bed up and clean the room; and bellhops at your command, sir.

Night Fighters In Britain Are Most Optimistic

Believe Fight Will Be Won
When Ten Per Cent Of Night Invaders Drop

ONE AT NIGHT IS WORTH FIVE IN DAY

By MERRILL MUELLER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

RAF Night Owl Station, Somewhere in England—"One by night is worth five by day!"

Behind that motto, the elite of the Royal Air Force, the night fighter squadrons, today are continuing their struggle to defeat the war's worst weapon: the indiscriminate night bomber.

The "crack" commander of a night fighter squadron, a former bomber command pilot and Nazi prisoner of war (escaped after being shot down over Maastricht last summer), holder of the AFC, DFC (3 times) and DSO, had this to say during my visit to his station:

"We have made rapid strides in the development of scientific aids to night interception, and I have great hopes that in the not too distant future we shall make the enemy sit up and think."

"I think that if we can shoot down ten per cent of the night bombers that come over, we have beaten the night bomber because of the loss to the Germans of trained crews; averaging four men to the bomber."

Scientific Aids Used
This first revelation that scientific aids are used sinks the silly "cat's eye" propaganda put out during the early successes of night fighter pilots.

That science has played an important part in the recent blows the RAF night owls inflicted on the Luftwaffe (their record night was 33 aircraft confirmed destroyed during a heavy blitz on London), is readily seen when one examines the popular new Beaufighter, English counterpart of the American Airacuda.

This short-nosed, twin-engined, high-powered fighter is an efficient fighting airplane. The equipment enables the pilots to "find, fix and fight" (the three "f's" of the Fighter Command) the black-painted enemy—although it is admitted pilot's vision must be excellent for the final phase of gun-firing. Night fighter pilots, therefore, have 23 per cent better vision than day pilots.

Easy Ground Life
"We try to make these boys feel they are the elite," the commander said. "Their ground life must be easy as possible for nighty they risk all in getting into operation and getting safely back to the ground—not to mention the heaviest of risks in night fighting."

What are those risks like? Here's a veteran night fighter—A New Zealand boy of 26 (DFC), who started night fighting without special equipment last September and got the first confirmed night victims (3) with his machine-gun equipped Hurricane. He has come through successive blitzes to see his task made easier.

"At first we used to consider it pretty tame and I was rather peeved at being transferred from day flying, but then I got my first jerry at night last September and the interest has increased. These new kites, our scientific aids, about which we are not allowed to talk even to fellow-pilots of day squadrons, and the cannon, are great helps. We have longer range aircraft now, too, that enable us to pursue farther and longer. My first jerry last September went down quickly in a ball of flame from one anti-aircraft battery let so at me but I managed to slip their box barrage. We have to take that chance, even now, of pursuing a sighted enemy into an area where we are not supposed to fly but ground control quickly shuts off the archie, you speed up, and then the chase begins. You line him up, give him one cannot squirt, and whoosh!...he's gone in bits. These cannon are terrors...but then you're lost in a wilderness of black and you painfully request home to tell you where you are—although you seldom believe them...so you get back on patrol, slide down to the ground and wish your way into a black-out landing...believe me, that's the worst part of it—you drop out of the night onto the ground like dropping china dishes, except we seldom 'crack'."

No Mitigating Circumstances
"A great many people do not mean to loot," said a representative of the Ministry of Home Security. "They think that because something is lying around in a broken district, they are entitled to salvage it. As a matter of fact anyone who removes anything, however valueless from a bombed area is liable to be put to death. Some cases have occurred where a wine shop or a hotel has been demolished. The workers have found bottles of wine or spirits lying about, and not unnaturally helped themselves to a drink. This is as serious an offense as stealing articles of value."

During the great fire of London, last December, one of the historic buildings to be destroyed was the Hall of the Baker's Company. The cellar, which was beneath the great banqueting hall, contained some priceless old wines. The salvage men decided to allow the wreckage to cool off a little before attempting to remove the valuable bottles, and as the floor was still smoking, they did not leave a guard. The next morning every bottle had disappeared.

The police have a special department now organized to deal with this type of crime, and are assisted by a fleet of cars, from dirty little vans to saloon cars with no distinguishing markings. These vehicles are capable of a speed of ninety miles an hour and with this assistance they expect to stamp out the trouble.

BROTHERS NOT FIRE VICTIMS

is advisable. This cultivation will starve the underground plants. Various weed killing chemicals have been employed in the eradication of poison ivy. These chemicals will usually kill all kinds of plants and should not be allowed to touch the leaves or bark of valuable trees, shrubs, herbs or grass. It is not necessary to cut the tops of plants before applying chemicals and the spraying can be applied at any time during the growing season.

Salt brine prepared by adding about three pounds of common salt to a gallon of soapy water is frequently used. Various oils such as discarded crank case oil are effective and may be thinned with kerosene. Experiments have shown that excellent results are obtained by spraying with a solution of sodium chlorate. The solution is prepared by dissolving two pounds of sodium chlorate in a gallon of water and an ordinary garden sprayer can be used in making the application. This, however, is a dangerous chemical and care must be exercised. Organic material such as clothing and dead vegetation become highly inflammable after being treated with the chemical and then dried.

Threat Of Death Curbs Looters In Great Britain

Police Estimate They Have Already Arrested Majority
Of Organized Criminals

WERE MENACE AT START OF WAR

By EARL REEVES

LONDON, July 26.—A concentrated effort by the British police, backed by the death penalty, has almost put a stop to the looting which proved so great a menace during the air raids in the early months of the year. Although no one as yet has actually suffered the extreme penalty of the law, many have been sent to prison for terms up to ten years, and the officers have orders that any looter may be shot at sight, or arrested and faced with hanging.

The police believe that they have already caught as many as seventy five per cent of the organized criminals, but too many individuals are still free. In an interview, Colonel Joshua West, co-ordinator of the one possible cause of these men to make an example of these pests.

"If we kill these organized ghouls who rob even bodies lying in the ruins of their shattered homes," he said, "we will deter others. Now that the government is buying up furniture for the homeless, looters have gone into that business too. In one London suburb families were forced to leave their homes because of time bombs. When they returned a few days later most of their furniture had disappeared."

Thieves Operate Openly
Distribution warehouses have been established by receivers of stolen goods, who are kept supplied by gangs. These crooks openly drive up lorries during or just after a major bombing, and haul away any goods worth salvaging. Some men, who had well paid jobs have left them to take up the profession of looting.

Leeds and Coventry have perhaps suffered worse from this menace than other towns. In the former place one man was convicted of eleven offenses, and sentenced to ten years in jail. A former window cleaner, he had given up a job which brought him in an income of forty to fifty dollars a week, and in conjunction with a mother of six young children, organizing a clearing station which was a veritable arsenal of looted property.

In Coventry the looting was highly organized by gangs who came by road from London and not only seized property from damaged homes but even sold it back to the bombed owners. Among the convicted persons were a London reserve policeman, three Air Raid Precaution workers and a mother of eleven children who was sentenced to several months imprisonment for stealing one shilling (25 cents) worth of coal.

No Mitigating Circumstances
"A great many people do not mean to loot," said a representative of the Ministry of Home Security. "They think that because something is lying around in a broken district, they are entitled to salvage it. Was Held as Spy

Miss Josephine Winter

Happy to be back in the United States is Miss Josephine Winter, 25, of St. Louis, Mo. An American ambulance driver earlier in the war, Miss Winter fled France when that nation's resistance collapsed. She was arrested as a spy suspect in Spain and held for 11 days in jail at Figueras. Spanish authorities, says Miss Winter, regard all foreign blond young women as possible spies.

Stumped For a Time
"Until you asked me I don't believe I seriously thought just what made me, an American, join the W. A. A. F.," I said, Eileen.

"Nevertheless, I suppose it must have been a combination of three things—my innate hankering for adventure, a sense of loyalty, and the feeling I must do something to help in the fight for democracy and freedom."

"Then, too, you must remember I had been living in England for some five years prior to the war. During that time I had built up a successful dress designing business of my own. I had met and formed many good friendships and associations, and well, when one's friends are in trouble, one doesn't walk out on them."

With so many English women I knew joining the various female services. I decided that as I was a capable motor driver with at least my license clean, I would try my luck in the W. A. A. F.

"After passing through a short training period, I was selected and posted at the R. A. F. headquarters staff in London."

"And I must say I have been lucky. Of course, I sometimes have to put in long hours, but I certainly haven't found the life too arduous, although driving in the black-out and especially during a blitz is no picnic."

"To some people, acting as a chauffeur may sound dull and not very helpful. On the contrary I have found it interesting and even thrilling at times."

"I have made many trips to various airbases in all parts of the country. Some of them have lasted several days and among the distinguished R. A. F. officers I have driven were Air Marshal Sir Charles Portal and Air Vice Marshal Richard Peck."

"The removal of signposts makes driving around Britain these days, especially for a foreigner, extremely difficult."

More important than the defenses of the excellent discipline and condition of these armies—the best I have observed in England—and the magnificent fighting records and traditions of the various units which, when in kilts or tartans, have gained the reputations of "ladies from hell."

Highly Mobile Armies
Highly mobile, and with much new American equipment and close and strong air support, the Scottish armies are responsible for the protection of an area bigger than England itself—in many places arid and desolate land rich only in the summer bloom of the purple heather and the winter value of cattle feeding.

American aircraft and field artillery play a major role in the defenses of Scotland. Her shores are guarded by American destroyers and bombers, her hills camouflage the guns that wait to blast the invader, but all this mass can be moved at a moment's notice to any given point of attack on the long coastline.

I spent three days on maneuvers with the Scottish armies covering nearly 200 miles with many complete divisions not only traveling but simulating battles during their movements. They are fast and ardent and went untrifling without any but cat-naps caught during their mobile interlude in the "battles" for seven days and nights.

Army Drill Perfect
I left the armies to join the air force, and from a special base at my disposal checked the work of Scottish artillery and camouflage movement. It was as near perfect as any army drill can make such operations.

But, like Ireland and all England, Scotland needs more equipment, more and more I am told, until it floods the highlands and lowlands and spreads over the continent where the Scottish yearn to return to the offensive. They also cast longing eyes on Norway and in the camp at the northern tip of the day when "we'll leave John O'Groats and kick the Nazi out of Norway."

One feature of the Scottish armies that is a keynote to their shrewdness and mettle is the secret defenses of the vast moors and forests and desolate areas in this rugged country. Hundreds of army divisions would be required to encamp across these open spaces, but an intricate and special home guard arrangement, supported by a few aircraft so thoroughly polices the land they know so well that it is said without contradiction that "a herd of deer, a flock of grouse cannot move without their movement being known and charted by these far-flung sentinels."

UNDERGOES OPERATION.
Dr. Frank Viggiano, of South Jefferson street, an interne in the McKeesport General hospital who recently suffered a severe illness, underwent a major operation on Friday morning in McKeesport hospital. His condition is said to be satisfactory.

Thirst For Adventure Spurs American Women To Join British Auxiliary Air Force

By HOWARD BERRY

LONDON—A thirst for adventure, a sense of loyalty to the country in which she had been living for five years, and because she wanted to help Britain in her fight for democracy and freedom, were the reasons given today by pretty American-born Mrs. Eileen Travis for joining the British Women's Auxiliary Air Force.

The only American serving in the W. A. A. F., Mrs. Travis, nee Eileen Gallagher of Buffalo, N. Y., has spent the past 18 months driving high-ranking officers of the Royal Air Force to all parts of the country on inspection tours of service airbases, aircraft and munition factories.

With the natty cap of her smart light blue uniform set at a jaunty "Beatty" angle, Eileen presented a charming picture of feminine efficiency as she told the writer her reasons for enlisting and something of the nature of her work.

"Until you asked me I don't believe I seriously thought just what made me, an American, join the W. A. A. F.," I said, Eileen.

Industrial Accident Toll Is High In State

By JOHN PAGET

HARRISBURG, July 26.—Pennsylvania's defense-spurred industries are claiming the life of one workman every 85 minutes and injuring others at the rate of one a minute, the Department of Labor and Industry reported Friday.

A survey of accidents during June based upon figures of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau revealed a total of 11,238 injuries including 119 of these and 288 permanent disability cases.

On the assumption of a 40-hour work week, the report stated, "these data represented the occurrence of about one injury every minute and one death every 85 minutes."

Continued gains in industrial activity in Pennsylvania, already flooded with $1,342,342.205 in defense orders, resulted during June in the highest monthly total of reported injuries since August 1937, the report added.

Big Employment Increase
Department officials pointed out, however, that the increased injuries are not out of line with the great increase in employment.

Kennedy Enters Sheriff Contest

Announces Candidacy For Republican Party Nomination At Primaries

JESSE C. KENNEDY

Jesse C. Kennedy, Constable of the Third Ward, New Castle, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Lawrence County to be held Tuesday, September 9th.

Mr. Kennedy's statement is as follows: "For the past eleven years I have been associated with Alderman O. H. P. Green of the Third Ward, as Constable. During that period I have discharged my duties to the entire satisfaction of Alderman Green and the entire district served. As Constable, my work is closely related to that of the Sheriff's office. This has given me an unusual opportunity to study the requirements of the office of Sheriff.

"For many years I was employed on the Pennsylvania Railroad as a brakeman and conductor. I am a native of Lawrence County and my home is at 107 Richfield avenue, New Castle, Pa. Therefore, my interests in the welfare of this county are real and genuine.

"If nominated, and elected, I am sure that my past training will prove I am amply equipped to discharge the duties of that office in an efficient and impartial manner, seeing to it that the law is enforced, and the public peace is respected.

"I respectfully seek the support of the Republican Electors on September 9th and assure those who voted for me as their candidate for this office four years ago when I finished second to the winner, as well as those new friends of mine who regard it appropriate that my name be placed in candidacy for this office, that I shall acquit myself in a manner complimentary to the requirements of the office, those who know my many years experience with the Pennsylvania Railroad and later as Constable will support me, and that by training and attention to duty the office of sheriff will be conducted in an efficient and business-like manner."

Your vote is solicited.
Thank you.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

OATS HELP TO PREVENT CANNIBALISM OF FOWLS

Many Lawrence county poultrymen keep oats constantly before the fowls as a deterrent against cannibalism as well as for feeding value. The oats are put in separate hoppers from the mash or scratch grain.

If the growing pullets had access to oats in the brooder house, it is a good plan to move the oats hopper to the range. Moreover, if the poultryman plans to house-locate oats to the fowls in their laying quarters, it is well to accustom the pullets to ready access to this feed while on the range. Thus, possible dangers of litter eating and cannibalism are minimized when the pullets are housed. Poultrymen usually move the oats hopper to the poultry house when the pullets go into laying quarters.

CARE OF RASPBERRIES INFLUENCES NEXT CROP

The size and quality of any raspberry crop depends somewhat on the rainfall and the care received in the year of harvest, but also very much on the growing conditions supplied for the young canes. The previous summer, canes which produced the most and largest fruit this year were those that had developed the greatest thickness last year.

So, if we would have good production in 1942, let us provide adequate care this summer. Prompt removal of fruiting canes soon after the picking season is over, relieves crowding and encourages better development of the young canes.

Frequent cultivation which is necessary in the raspberry plantation tends to reduce rapidly the amount of organic matter in the soil. Above-normal applications of manure will help to offset this loss. A cover crop sown soon after harvest is completed also will help to maintain soil fertility by adding organic matter and retarding soil erosion. In addition, the cover crop will give greater hardness by encouraging earlier maturity of the canes.

When berry picking is over, the old canes are removed and burned and the soil thoroughly cultivated as soon as possible in preparation for seeding a cover crop. Sudan grass and millet are good cover crops. Domestic ryegrass also is satisfactory if the seed is kept out of the soil. If it will not be difficult to work up next spring.

Superphosphate at the rate of 200 pounds or more an acre will benefit the cover crop, but one should avoid the use of high-nitrogen fertilizers at this season because they may result in late growth and immaturity of the raspberry canes.

WELL-FINISHED LAMBS WILL PAY DIVIDENDS

Pennsylvania sheepmen are experiencing a rather satisfactory year as far as lamb prices are concerned. As usual, well-finished lambs are returning dividends for the care and feed given them.

Probably no other class of livestock suffers such a heavy penalty on the market as a half-fat lamb. This condition, however, can be avoided. The good flockmaster weans his lambs at 4 to 5 months of age for a two-fold purpose. First, his ewe flock has an opportunity to get in condition before the breeding season. Second, when the lambs are weaned, drenched, and turned on fresh pasture with a little grain added they make very rapid gains. Lambs and ewes should be drenched every 21 days during the summer, if best results are to be obtained.

If lambs do not have abundant fresh pasture, it will pay to feed grain in addition. Approximately a half-pound per head each day of a grain mixture of equal parts of corn and oats by weight makes a very satisfactory gain.

Another chore for the sheepman is to go over the ewe flock and take out any ewes that have broken mouths, that are lost shearing, or have bad udders. These ewes can be replaced in the flock by a few well-grown ewe lambs. Remember, these old ewes many times are a liability instead of an asset in the flock.

OFF-FLAVORS CAUSE OF LOW QUALITY PRODUCTS

Whether farmers sell milk in fluid form or in its manufactured state, off-flavored milk results in economic loss because the product is lacking in quality.

Contamination by bacterial decomposition, enzymatic action, improper feeding practices, or absorbed odors is the cause of off-flavored milk.

Bacterial decomposition, the primary cause of much off-flavored milk, may be controlled by sanitary practices in production. It is necessary to keep the cow clean, properly stable, and free from disease; to employ a milker who is clean in his habits, who properly sterilizes all utensils, and who keeps milk from absorbing odors, cools it properly, and keeps it cold until it is delivered.

Off-flavored milk caused by enzymatic action is comparatively rare, while off-flavored milk from absorbed odors may be prevented by keeping the milk from contact with foreign odors.

Most of our off-flavored milk comes from feeds and weeds. Careful attention is needed to prevent off-flavors from corn, alfalfa, sweet clover or soybean silage; green corn, green oats and peas, green alfalfa, rye and clover; dried beet pulp; rape; kale and cabbage. At this season of the year cows are on pasture. In too many pastures there are weeds which create off-flavors in milk. Aid in solving the pasture and feed problem is to take the cows off pasture and feed at least two to three hours prior to milking and not allow cattle access to anything but the grain mixture until after they have been milked.

PEACH SEASON APPROACHES

The time for the ripening of peaches is drawing near and that means that some of the peaches will be prepared for canning.

Peaches come in white and yellow with cling and free-stones, points out Mrs. Julia Taylor, home economics extension representative of Lawrence county.

There is little difference in food value among peaches except in vitamin A value, but yellow-fleshed peaches outrank the white varieties on this score. According to home economists in the United States Department of Agriculture, a medium-sized dish of yellow peaches will supply about one-third the vitamin A an adult needs for a day. This vitamin, of course, is needed by both grown-ups and children for good nutrition.

Except for the very early ones, clingstone peaches usually are not eaten fresh. They are, however, especially suitable for cooking, for pickling, and for commercial canning.

Peaches are one of the easiest fruits of all to can at home. Most home canners prefer mid-season or late yellow-fleshed freestone peaches. Select peaches for canning with even more care than those you plan to eat fresh. Canning does not improve the quality of the fruit, and only the very best peaches are suitable.

To make sure of the quality, look for peaches that are firm and ripe but not soft. Avoid those that are badly bruised, those that are uneven in shape and have punctures made by worms, and those with brown spots of decay. The pink blush that is found on many varieties of peaches tells little about the quality, but the rest of the color on the outside of the peach is very important. If the background color is green, the peach may ripen with poor flavor or it may become shriveled. But the peach is safe, if this green color has changed to a yellow or whitish-yellow color.

The chief problem in canning peaches is to keep them from turning brown after they are peeled. That's why it is important to get the peaches into the containers and then into the water bath as quickly as possible. You can avoid peeling too many peaches if you can use exactly how many jars or cans you are able to process at one time. Allow from 2 to 2½ pounds of peaches for each quart jar.

Precooking the peaches and packing them hot also helps to prevent the brown discoloration. The water bath method of processing is more successful than the oven method. It takes longer to process peaches in the oven and the ymum turn brown before they are heated through. Another disadvantage of using the oven method is that the juice bubbles out, leaving the top peach "high and dry."

Further directions for canning fruits of all kinds may be found in Pennsylvania State College circular "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables," which may be obtained from the Agriculture Extension Association office, No. 206 Post Office Building, New Castle.

Will Address Flower Clubs

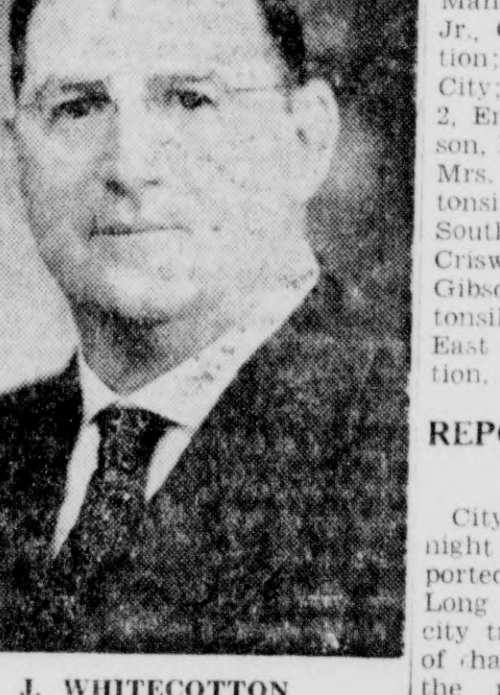

State College Specialist Will Be At Liberty Grange Hall Next Tuesday

On Tuesday, July 29, at 1:30 p. m., A. O. Rasmussen, Pennsylvania State college ornamental horticultural specialist, will address Lawrence county flower club members, the meeting having been arranged through the interest of the Harlansburg Flower club.

Mr. Rasmussen will discuss the selection of specimen flowers for exhibition, and other pertinent subjects along this line.

Mrs. E. N. Eakin, vice president of the Harlansburg club has invited all flower club members in the county to attend, and it is expected that a large number will avail themselves of this opportunity.

Jos. D. Alexander Council Candidate

Candidate For Republican Nomination At Primaries In September

JOSEPH D. ALEXANDER

Joseph D. Alexander, now serving as Director of Parks and Property in the City Council, today announced that he is a candidate for re-election and seeks nomination in the September primaries as one of the Republican candidates at the Fall election.

Mr. Alexander was first elected to City Council eight years ago and was re-elected in 1937 for his second term. During all of that time he has been in charge of the Property of the City, including the Parks and the Sewage Disposal Plant, and has served as well as Purchasing Agent. In asking the voters to re-nominate and re-elect him, Mr. Alexander says:

"I am confident that the majority of the Citizens of New Castle know me and are familiar with the kind of service I have given to them and to the city, in the years during which they have entrusted me with the duties of my office."

"I appreciate that I have been given the opportunity by the taxpayers to learn well all the details of City government, and particularly the business of caring for the property of the City and doing its buying. My record in doing this work speaks for itself, as to my ability to do it well and my honesty to do it faithfully in the interest of the people of the City who must pay the cost."

"I assure all those who have supported me before that if I am given further confidence, I will not betray it, but will endeavor to use what ability I have and the knowledge I have acquired in my work to promote the welfare of the City at all times, to keep down the cost of City government and to further the industry and well-being of all the people."

"Those who have not supported me before, I can only ask that they examine my record and if they believe I have merited their support, I will be grateful for it."

New Deal Spending Plan To Be Assailed

By GRIFTING BANCROFT
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Republican members of the house ways and means committee disclosed today that they will file a minority report on the new $3,500,000,000 tax bill which will be "sharply critical of new deal spending."

Far from taking exception to the revenue measure as a whole, however, the powerful GOP bloc warn that it is "just a starter of the burdens which will be placed on the American people."

Gist of the Republican argument will be to point out the rapidity with which congress today spends billions of dollars compared with the slow laboring process entailed in raising a small part of it.

The defense program so far has run to $2,000,000,000 either spent, appropriated or committed, the Republicans say. With very little debate, it takes the house usually only an hour or two to dispose of bills running into billions.

The lower body has virtually completed action on a new defense spending bill calling for an outlay of more than $8,000,000,000, and its passage Monday is assured.

There are no "war-mongers" in America. Is a man a storm-monger because he digs a cyclone cellar?

The ways and means committee, however, has spent more than three months drawing up a tax bill which will raise $3,500,000,000, it was pointed out. This measure will be fought on the floor and with passage assured at least a week will be spent in debating it.

"We will soon be spending $100,000,000 every day, while we will be collecting as taxes only $30,000,000 a day," Rep. Jenkins (R., Ohio), a member of the committee declared.

"If the people can hardly pay $30,000,000 a day, how can they pay $100,000,000? In face of this threatening situation, the new deal marches merrily on scattering money to the winds."

The Republicans, however, have shied away from criticizing defense spending. But Jenkins declared that the department of agriculture, far from curtailing its spending, is getting $142,000,000 more than it did last year, and that the independent offices appropriation bill was up $294,000,000.

"The iniquity of the tax bill is now apparent," Rep. Dirksen (R., Ill.) commented. "It is obviously only a starter. Much greater burdens will be placed on the people before we are through."

Mrs. Fred Jenkins, is confined to her home by illness.

Lytle Gilkey had his face injured when struck by a piece of pipe.

Mrs. Elsie Blatch visited her son Chalmers at East Liverpool, Ohio, this week.

Rev. and Mrs. L. D. Wolfe are spending the week at Clinton Camp grounds, near Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Mildred McGeorge and daughter Ruth visited her mother, Mrs. Hochstetler Wednesday.

Gerald Wayne Tanner left Wednesday morning for New Cumberland, Pa., for selective service training.

Mrs. Charles Hazen and son, Raymond, of Salem, Ohio, visited at the home of Wilard Hazen on Thursday.

New Galilee community firemen, are making ready for their home coming carnival, scheduled for the coming week of July 28.

Mrs. Lillian Beighley of Wampum, spending a few weeks with her aunt Mrs. Margaret Lambright, who fell and broke her arm some time ago, but is improving nicely.

Mrs. A. W. Tanner and Mrs. Archie Hixson and daughter Betty Jayne, visited on Thursday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Brown, of the Darlington-Beaver Falls road.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Tanner of Youngstown, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Tanner, son, Gerald Hixson, and Betty Jayne, and Miss Eleanor Sinkovitch were recent visitors at Pymatuning dam.

Mrs. Garber, of Beaver Falls, Mrs. Milton Crowl of Girard, Ohio, and Mrs. James Sargent of Sharon, entertained a large number of friends and neighbors in the home of their parents, in honor of their mother.

A very enjoyable evening was spent, and at a late hour lunch was served. Mrs. Grimm received a beautiful floor lamp also a number of other gifts. This party was the form of a house warming as the Grimsms have recently moved to their farm.

Japanese-U. S. Assets Affected By New Orders

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Latest Department of Commerce figures today listed the following American and Japanese assets affected by "freezing" orders issued by the two nations.

United States investments in Japan: short term, $67,000,000; direct investments, $45,000,000; government bonds, $105,000,000; total, $217,000,000.

Japanese assets in the United States: short term, $91,000,000; long term, $40,000,000; total, $131,000,000.

Chief American investments in Japan besides government bonds are in branch factories for automobiles and petroleum products, while Japan's are in distributing concerns for Japanese products, branch banks and cotton compress companies.

Pirates Defeat Dodgers Twice

Go Into Tie For Third Place By Winning Two, Grove Defeats Indians

By PAT ROBINSON
(International News Service Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, July 26.—We doff our sombrero today to the greatest left handed pitcher of all time—Rube Waddell (Lefty) Grove of the Boston Red Sox.
And if anybody doubts it, we are prepared to offer the following facts to bolster our case:
Lefty yesterday turned his 300th major league victory, a feat accomplished by only four others since the turn of the century—Grover Cleveland Alexander, Cy Young, Eddie Plank and Walter Johnson—immortals all.

Grove Out-standing
In the last 40 years there have been four outstanding southpaws—Rube Waddell, Eddie Plank, Herb Pennock and Lefty Grove—and old Connie Mack, who managed them all, says Grove was the star of them all, and Connie's judgment is good enough for us.

And now at 41, the gray-haired veteran from Ligonizing, Md., is still able to step out with the mercury at 90 in the shade and turn back the Indians, 10-6, with the help of a homer by Williams and two by Taber.

Well, have we proved our case? Okay, then we can move on to remind you that the Yanks increased their lead to 11 games by blanking the White Sox, Spud Chandler held the White Sox to three hits and Charley Keller weighed in with homer No. 25 and Tommy Henrich with No. 18.

Pirates Win Two
The Athletics moved within a game of the first division by trouncing the Sliding Tigers, 11-5, and the Browns bounced out of the cellar by downing the Senators, 7-3.
There was joy in Pittsburgh and corresponding gloom in Brooklyn as the Pirates took a doubleheader from the Dodgers, 8-4, and 8-2. That made seven straight for the Pirates and moved them up to third place in the standings.

The Reds fell victim to long Tom Hughes of the Phillies, 4-3, and in a night game in St. Louis, the five game winning streak of the Cards was stopped by Jim Tooin as the seventh place Boston Braves copped an 8 to 0 victory.

Bessemer To Play At Home Sunday

Bessemer will oppose Wampum at Bessemer at three p. m. Sunday at Bessemer and on Monday the league leading Ellwoodians will oppose Hillsville at Hillsville. Indications are that the race will wind up a bitter fight between Ellwood City, Bessemer and Hillsville with Wampum now and then providing upsets.

Indies-Elders Game Postponed

The regular scheduled City league game for Sunday between the Lawrence Indies and Elders has been postponed until a later date. It was announced today by Rev. Fr. Peter M. Schira, president of the league. The Elders owing to working conditions are unable to get enough players to stage the game.

West Pittsburgh At Moose
The West Pittsburgh Gas House gang will try to halt the winning streak of the Moose club at Marshall field tomorrow afternoon. Manager Rodenbaugh will probably use "Monk" Rainey on the hill, with West Pittsburgh using either Powell or Brady. It was announced by John Marky, the new manager of the Gas House who is assisting Danny DeGenova.

There is another natural for Sunday, the West Side A. C. playing at Ryanown. Both are West Side teams and friendly rivals, which should make it a crackerjack game. Manager Len Gilbert will more than likely start either Eddie "Feller" Stewart or Scotty Morrison, both of them effective against Ryanown in other games.

The fourth game will find the Slovaks battling the Croton A. C. at the Cascade street field. It will be Janoski or Balla for the Slovaks and Chialfallo for the Crotonites.

Fannins Defeat Radiators 7-2

Gunther Limits League Leaders To Four Hits In Surprise Victory

Young Heinie Gunther handcuffed the league leading Radiators last night with four hits as the Fannins took an upset win at the Rose avenue field 7 to 2.
Gunther was master of the Rads at all times. He fanned six batters. Greg Ross was the losing leader giving up 12 hits. The Fannins batted around in the last of the seventh, scoring six runs. Teddy "Peaches" Koltz featured the game by hitting a terrific homer in the last of the seventh with the bases intoxicated. Sniezek also hit the ool nard for the Fannins. Hordig was the best Radiator hitter.

No other hurler in the National League has beaten any one team as much. Joe McCarthy claims Roy Cullenbine, of the Browns, is the most improved American Leaguer of the year.

Suppose you've noticed that Boudreau and Mack, pronounced as the greatest shortstop-second base combo in the majors, have been split up. Mack now is riding the dugout rail. The New York Yankees vs.

Johnson Bronze Golfers Busy

The Johnson Bronze golf league enjoyed their weekly matches at the Castle Hills golf course last evening with the playing of three matches. The night's play left the Fannins in front with 10 points. It was announced by Secretary Nick Mitto today.
The medalist was Stan Bukowski, with a scintillating 36, and other low cards were turned in by Stan Kibish, 38; Rod Pezzone, 40; and French, 41. French also won the golf ball for low net score, with a 41-12-29 card.
The results last night:
Hazards, 34; Eagles, 1½.
Mashies, 2½; Brassies, 2½.
Pars, 2½; Birds, 2½.
Standings of the league: Pars, 10; Brassies, 9½; Mashies, 9; Hazards, 6½; Eagles, 6.

Castle Five To Dine On Sunday

The reunion, in the form of a banquet, of the old Castle Five basketball team, will be held at the Castleton hotel at 6:30 o'clock on Sunday evening. Al Samuels is chairman of the dinner.

It is hoped that as many of the old-time players as possible will be present. The team made a very enviable record in local floor circles for the years from 1920 to 1926. Harry Day and Ralph Gardner, who coached the team, will be present at the dinner. No set speaking program has been outlined.

LARRY ROSENTHAL STEADY PERFORMER

CLEVELAND.—Consistency has won Larry Rosenthal the centerfield berth on the Cleveland Indians aggregation.
When Manager Peckinpaugh decided that Roy Weatherly was not performing up to par, Rosenthal got the call.

In various spots around the globe, 56 clubs, honoring Joe DiMaggio's hitting streak, have been formed. The membership is restricted to 56 members. There's quite a scramble for the services of Hal Seeling, Baltimore shortstop. Seeling is batting over .300 and has poled 10 homers. At least one sheet in New York is pushing a "all world series games be played at Yankee stadium". That's on the expectation that the Yanks and Dodgers will meet in the classic.

Joe DiMaggio's record shattering bat was recently raffled in San Francisco. The hickory brought $1,678. The cash was turned over to the U.S.O. The bat originally cost $2. ... Despite the fact that he has been around the majors for sometime, "Lefty" Gomez hurled his first night game recently. He won 1-0. New York Giants professional grid team starts training on August 1, at Superior, Wisconsin.

Next Baseball School Lesson On Fri. Aug. 8

Glenn Wright and Al Kreuz, free baseball school instructors, today announced that the next lesson will be given on Friday, August 8, at George Washington Junior High.

Boys are asked to note the class will not be conducted next Friday here.

Dempsey And Wife Are Reconciled

(International News Service)
DENVER, July 26.—Friends today heard a cheerful little earful about Jack Dempsey and his wife, the former Hannah Williams.

The former heavyweight champion, now touring the Colorado canebreaks with a wrestling troupe, revealed in Denver that he and the one-time stage star were reconciled about two months ago following a long period of estrangement.

Plans for a vacation next month at Lake Tahoe, Nev., have been temporarily abandoned because Mrs. Dempsey recently was taken ill at their New York home, Dempsey said.

The couple's two children will join him at Salt Lake City next week for a week's stay with his mother, the former champion said.

Dempsey refereed a wrestling card at Salida last night.

Hogan Adds To Purse

With a record total of 274 for 72 holes, Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., the nation's leading golf money winner, takes the $5,000 Chicago Open golf title played at the Elmhurst Country club. Hogan, pictured in action, added $1,200 to his winnings of the year. He now has won $11,517 this year.

Paul Wamer, recently made a free agent, of the Pirates, won three league batting titles in the fifteen years he played for Pittsburgh.

Croton, Civics Cop Victories

Crotonites Dunk Bush A. C. 8-6 While Civics Spill Deweys, 8-4

Croton and Union Civics emerged victorious in last City-County Independent Baseball league games played Friday night.

Croton tossed the monkey wrench in the championship plans of the Bush A. C., grabbing an 8-6 triumph. Croton marched out front with a four run onslaught in the opening frame. The Bush, however, went ahead in the third. Croton rallied in the fifth to win.

J. Morgan featured the plate for the winners while Mayberry was the star hitter for the losing nine. J. Memo, the winning pitcher, struck-out 12 batters.

Score by innings: R H E
Bush 032 100—6 4 2
Croton 400 13x—8 4 3
Batteries: Bush: Capola, Smith and Melver; Croton: J. Memo and J. Morgan.

DEWEYS DEFEATED
Scampering across the plate five times in the fifth inning, the Union Civics tripped the Deweys, 8-4, last night on Scotland Lane field.

Reynolds starred for the winners by rifling a homer. Annarelli soaked a double for the losers.

Score by innings: R H E
Deweys 202 000—4 5 1
Civics 121 04x—8 9 0
Batteries: Deweys: Majors and Adams; Civics: Horner and Summerson.

Johnson Bronze Softball League

Three more games were played in the Johnson Bronze softball league on Thursday night. In the first game as Gaston Park the league leading Brass Shop team defeated the Inspectors 9 to 5.

A four-run uprising in the first of the seventh gave the Brass Shop a victory. Dewey on the hill for the winners gave up but seven hits. Headland on the knoll for the losers gave 17 hits.

Score by innings: R H E
Brass 111 110 4—9 17 2
Inspectors 029 110 1—5 7 0
Batteries: Brass: Dewey and Pagle; Inspectors: Headland and Gunther.

YANKES TOP RABBITS

At Gaston Park, the Yankees hung up their sixth victory when they slammed out 13 hits and defeated the Babbitt Shop by the score of 12 to 6. Pezzone and Natale hurried for the winners and allowed only 9 hits, with Pezzone receiving credit for the win.

Kulich with 4 hits featured for the winners, with V. Ross and Gillett also hitting the ball hard, while for the losers the stick work of Outlaw and Colangelo featured.

Score by innings: R H E
Yankees 002 210 1—6 9 6
Babbitt 022 220 8—12 13 2
Score by innings: R H E
Batteries: Yankees: Shop, Fair and Malcer; Condas; Yankees: Pezzone, Natale and Gallagher.

SHEET METAL WINS

At Dean Park, Cooper for the Sheet Metal and Dewberry for the Sheet Metal engaged in a pitchers battle for 6 innings, but in the seventh, the Sheet Metal team slammed out 6 runs, and took a well played game from the Office by score of 10 to 6. For the winners Wright slammed a home run while French hit a triple and Al Jones hit a two-bagger for the losers. Kersey featured with fine catches in the field.

Score by innings: R H E
Sheet Metal 310 000 0—2 11 2
Office 100 200 3—6 9 2
Batteries: Sheet Metal: Dewberry and Shaffer; Office: Cooper, Schooley and Jacobs.

ONE MAN BATTERY

The Philadelphia Phillies have a one-man battery in the person of Bill Harmon, who can go behind the bat or to the mound as the occasion requires. In fact, he has done it in the majors against the Cincinnati Reds—catching a couple of innings and pitching one in the same game.

TIED FOUR TIMES

The figger filberts reveal that despite the nip-and-tuck first place battle between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the St. Louis Cardinals in the National league, these two clubs have been exactly tied only four days all season.

COPS FOUR TITLES

Odds numbers are Harry Heilmann's favorites. The former Detroit outfielder won four American league batting championships, all in odd years. He won in 1921, 1923, 1925 and 1927, skipping the even years.

AMBIDEXTROUS

Make Outkush, a New York greenskeeper is an ambidextrous linksman. He swings from the right on iron shots, from the left with the woods, and puts either right or left, depending on how he feels about it.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

There arrived today a copy of the Toronto Star depicting scenes from Birdseye Center. It was delivered to the writer by Adolf Roth who recently returned from Beverly Lake. Of course all Adolf said was: "A friend, Frank Kist, wants this delivered to you." Glancing through the comic section, which was marked off, we saw a picture of a fisherman looking skyward. He had cast his plug and it had caught on a telephone wire. It appears our deeds live after us, because it was the writer who in a boat on Beverly, made a cast and the plug and line had to be unwrapped from a telephone line strung across a portion of the lake.

It costs $15.20, to play a Lawrence County Baseball league game, according to James Martin, loop secretary. The highest cost is for umpire service, he reports. During twilight games two umpires receive a total of $5.00, and for Sunday games, $6.00. Other costs are: balls, two at $1.35 each, $2.70; transportation for games away from the home field, $3.00; franchise cost per game, 50 cents and equipment, other than baseballs, $4.00. This means it costs $15.20 for a twilight game and an additional dollar for a Sunday game. Usually the collection plate shows not more than $3.00.

Reports says good bass fishing prevails near Foxburg. Next boxing show will be held here Wednesday, August 13. Monday, August 11, originally had been set, but for the next show a switch has been made to Wednesday. It is likely the first come first served will apply at the ticket office because many of the boys who had choice seats have not been showing up to claim the reservations. Hence those who want good views can now put in and get them.

Ever catch a banana fish? A doctor whose name we cannot reveal, of ethical reasons advises: Bait the hook with a banana. Troll. When the fish sees the banana, he makes a dive. It is then you yank the banana out of the water and the fish jumps up through the hole left by the banana and you then net him while he is in the air. Yep, folks, that is the doctor's advice as to how to catch a banana fish.

Terrace A. C. will hold a reunion in August according to John Jones. In the teens after the turn of the century the Terrace was one of the best baseball teams the city has ever possessed. Whirlaway is a prohibitive favorite to win the $60,000 Arlington classic today.

Defending Champion Barney Welsh of Rockville, Md., was the victim of an upset at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., when Alex Guerry, Jr. of Seawater, Tenn. beat him 6-3. 6-4 in the West Virginia open tennis semi-finals. Adding a one-over-72 to an early round 72, Fred Traube, Lancaster, held a one-stroke lead in the Pennsylvania public links tourney with 149 for 36 holes at Hershey and sub par golf sent Joe Coria, St. Paul, Jimmy Thomson, Chicago, Mass., and Gene Rabinowitz, Chicago into the 67 bracket in the St. Paul open.

BACK IN A A
Jack Tising, who starred on the mound for Louisville and Indianapolis several years ago, is back in the American association with Milwaukee.

STILL RACING
Many of the trim catboats built by the late Capt. Gilbert Smith of Patchogue, L. I., around the turn of the century are still racing in the shallow bays along Long Island's South Shore.

WRITERS, TOO.
Not all ball players stick strictly to baseball when they write. Moe Berg, Boston Red Sox coach, expert on international law, linguist, holder of degrees from Princeton and Columbia and once a student at the Sorbonne writes for several up- per crust journals and Bill Weber, of the Cincinnati Reds, is author of a treatise of group insurance which has been published and republished in insurance journals.

SIGN PLAYERS
The New York football Yankees announced the signing of three new players—Tom Vargo, Penn State end; Frank Platte, Penn State tackle; and Dick Tuckey, former Manhattan back, who last year was with the Washington Redskins and the Long Island Indians.

Stock Market
Firm TodayTrading Is Slow, Fair Turnover Compared To Week Ago

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 26.—The stock market put in a firm performance today in spite of the overnight news that the U. S. had frozen Japanese assets in retaliation for Japan's invasion of Indo-China.

The market's action indicated the American move had been anticipated and discounted.

Rayon shares provided a feature, scoring wide gains in large dealings. Closure of the U. S. market to Japanese silk will benefit makers of artificial fibers.

Trading was slow, and turnover was around 250,000 shares vs. 220,000 shares last Saturday.

Commodities were firm also, though much quieter after yesterday's wide slump. Cotton rose around 50 cents a bale and wheat was fractionally higher.

The bond market saw another crackup in Japanese bonds, in a continuation of the decline which has been underway all week. The rest of the list was quiet.

The Nipponese issues broke an average of 5 points more today.

Celacene and Industrial Rayon ran up over 2 points each in the rayon division, the latter hitting a new high, and Rayonier was strong. On the other hand, Van Raalte silk dropped a point.

Patino was outstanding in the metals, rising to a new high. The company is Bolivia's big tin producer.

Other issues to set new highs included Schenley and Proctor & Gamble.

Nash-Kelvinator featured the low-priced motor section, gaining a moderate fraction to come within 1/2 point of its year's high. Other motor shares marked time.

The steel shares scored fractional gains. Excellent earnings showing of Youngstown Sheet & Tube had little effect.

American Airlines rose a point in a firm market for aviation shares. Ralls were quiet and irregular, and continued to be restrained by the wage negotiations. Most oils were inclined to sag. Shipbuilding shares scored fractional gains. Mail orders were down.

DuPont rose a point, and Eastman Kodak gained over a point.

Japan Missed
Chance To Win
Control Of SeaBritish And Dutch Were Unprepared For Defense
Of Pacific Last YearDIDN'T STRIKE
AS FRANCE FELLBy FREDERIC S. MARQUARDT
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO.—No one knows when war will break out in the Pacific. But if fighting should start, I do not believe it will involve the United States—at least not this year.

Japan missed a beautiful chance to launch its southward expansion drive in June 1940. After the collapse of France, and with Italy in the war on the side of Germany, Britain was forced to weaken its Hongkong and Singapore defenses in order to prepare for the Battle of Britain. It is doubtful if the British had a dozen first-line planes in the whole Far East last summer.

Naval strength was almost negligible. British resistance to a full-dress Japanese attack would have been spirited, but probably not effective.

The Dutch were a little better off, but not much. Stunned by the fall of Holland governed by a refugee government in England, the Dutch East Indies had a fair contingent of planes and submarines, but not enough to hold out for long without assistance—which was nowhere in sight.

U. S. Unprepared For War
A year ago the United States was psychologically and physically unprepared for war, especially in the Far East. The navy was ready, as it always has been, but it is extremely doubtful if American public opinion would have supported interests in the Orient at that time.

Had Japan struck hard and fast in Britain's dark hour, Hongkong, Singapore and Batavia might have been taken in rapid succession. There was no need to take Manila, since that would have only pushed the United States into the war. Besides Japan sees no point in using force to take an American possession which the United States plans to make independent shortly anyway.

Today the Far Eastern picture has changed greatly. After beating off the German attack on England, Britain began to pour war materials into Hongkong and Singapore. Probably 100,000 Australians are now in Malaya, itching for action. Some of the RAF's best planes and most experienced pilots are based at Singapore. Hongkong has taken stringent measures to prepare for its defense.

Strong Indies Air Force
The Dutch East Indies has probably the finest air force in the Orient—outside of Japan. It has at least 20 submarines, ready to play hob with any Japanese convoy system. It has a fast, mobile, hard-hitting native army, led by experienced Dutch officers.

Now apparently prepared to go to any length to support Britain, the United States has greatly strengthened its Philippine defenses in the past six months. Five thousand reservists of the Philippine Army have been taken into the U. S. Army. At least two pursuit squadrons have been sent to reinforce the Army Air Corps, and there are a good many bombers that the army isn't talking about.

The U. S. Asiatic fleet is stronger than it has ever been. It has two squadrons of bombers which could reach Tokyo, and get back. It has some of the biggest and newest submarines in the entire American fleet. And it is constantly adding to its surface vessels.

Tri-Power Conferences
Recently the British, Dutch and American officials in the Far East have been holding conferences at Manila. You can be sure they weren't discussing the tourist business.

In June, 1940, Japan could have attacked relatively weak British and Dutch positions one at a time, with fair assurance that the United States would stay out. Now Japanese drive to the south would find a concerted defense front, greatly strengthened in recent months, with American participation almost a certainty.

That is why I do not believe Japan will move southward this year.

But the long-range outlook for peace between the United States and Japan is not so cheerful.

U. S. Wants Status Quo
On the one hand, the United States is insisting on the status quo in the Pacific.

On the other hand, Japan is demanding a New Order in Greater East Asia.

It is obvious that there cannot be both a status quo and a new order. Unless one nation or the other recedes from its position, or unless the statement of the two countries can work out a fair compromise, the ultimate use of arms to settle the conflict appears inevitable.

JOHN McKISSON
TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

John McKisson, world war veteran, was taken to the Aspinwall Veterans Facility this afternoon in the mobile unit of the New Castle fire department rescue squad.

In need of immediate hospital treatment, and seriously ill, it was deemed advisable to take him in an ambulance, and the rescue corps kindly consented to do the job.

Talk of another A. E. F. is silly. You can land one on friendly or unfriendly shores, but there aren't any like that.

State W. P. A. Bill Given Approval

Governor Signs Measure
Passed By Recent Legislative Session

CONSIDER METHODS OF STARTING WORK

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, July 26.—Gov. Arthur H. James Friday signed a bill creating a "State WPA" in Pennsylvania, with relief money to be used to sponsor local work-relief projects.

The measure to which he appended his signature represented the major legislative concession he was able to win from the politically-opposed Democratic house and will make possible a reduction in state relief costs to the governor's office.

The new program will not conflict with the Federal WPA. The governor immediately appointed as administrator of the program Harry Davidson, of Harrisburg, former state official in charge of WPA projects of the Pennsylvania highways department. He will receive $5,000 a year.

The new program will get under way at once, said Jones, bestowing with "a great number of highway projects that either fell or were abandoned entirely because the Federal WPA indicated it had not sufficient funds to go ahead with them."

Discuss Program
The governor called a conference to discuss ways and means of placing the program into effect. Present were Secretary of Public Assistance Howard L. Russell, whose department will furnish the state funds needed; Budget Secretary Edward B. Logan, Secretary of Highways I. Lamont Hughes, and Davidson.

According to a legal opinion handed down by Attorney General Claude T. Reno, the "Little WPA" program must be carried out within the following provisions:

1. Any political subdivision—state, municipality, county, or school district—may sponsor work-relief projects, all of which are to be voluntary.
2. Only relief labor can be used.
3. The state will provide funds in an amount equal to 50 per cent of the amount of general assistance grants that would otherwise be payable to the relief recipients employed on a project.

4. No political activity is to be permitted among "Little WPA" employees nor are they to be permitted to participate in political affairs other than to cast their ballots. Making of employees is prohibited also.

5. All records of the program shall be available to scrutiny by the speaker of the house.

6. The program shall operate under the governor's personal supervision.

7. Upon termination of a little WPA project, relief workers are to be permitted to return to the state relief rolls.

Democratic legislative leaders at first refused to go along on the bill, but gave their assent to the measure when Governor James agreed to take over the county mental hospitals, a cardinal Democratic plank.

Canal Would Force 11,000 State Miners Out Of Their Jobs

Testimony Is Given Before
Congress Committee By Pittsburgh Man

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 26.—Completion of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project will throw more than 11,000 western Pennsylvania miners out of work, the house committee on rivers and harbors was told Friday.

Walter F. Schultze, of Pittsburgh, representing the Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators Association, said the proposed seaway would "disastrously" reduce coal production in western Pennsylvania.

Large quantities of western Pennsylvania coal now sold in Canada and the Great Lakes area would be displaced by foreign, ocean-borne coal transported through the seaway if the project is carried out as recommended by President Roosevelt, he stated.

Shipments of coal to New York City also would fall off if hydro-electric power would be developed, he added.

A coal loss of 10,000,000 tons would mean a labor reduction of more than 11,000 men, he testified.

He opposed diversion of the money, materials and equipment and labor to the project "because its defense value is dubious."

Business Shows District Increase

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, July 26.—Pittsburgh district business last week recovered most of its drop in the week ended July 12, rising to 147.8 per cent of the 1923-25 average. It was 148.2 the week ended July 5 and 148.5 the final week of June.

Steel mill operations advanced slightly last week, bituminous coal production went up to June levels, electric power advanced and rail and river shipments were above seasonal averages. Department store sales fell off but new motor car registrations increased to bring the adjusted trade index higher.

About Pennsylvania

(Compiled by Pennsylvania Department of Commerce)
It is possible to cross Pennsylvania via U. S. Route 6 through 400 miles of scenic beauty from the Ohio line to the New Jersey border without going into a city or a metropolitan district.

Near Union City, Erie county, is a tree called "Harp of Heaven." It is of a species common to South America. At Warren, many trees located close to the business section are estimated to be over 400 years old.

Dutch sauerkraut dumplings are popular with tourists visiting the Pennsylvania Dutch sections of the Keystone state. Following is the recipe: 1 beaten egg, one-eighth teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon milk, one-half cup flour, one-half teaspoon baking powder. Make into a paste and drop into boiling kraut.

Kentucky rifles were called such because they were the kind preferred by Daniel Boone, but they were actually manufactured in the Dutch section of Pennsylvania where Boone was born. His birthplace, near Birdsboro, Berks county, has been restored and is in use as a youth recreation center.

Lake Canadacha, just south of Union City which is on U. S. 6 is nearly two miles wide and 1,477 feet above sea level. Species of fish found here include bass, pickerel, catfish, pike and perch. The lake is also ideal for swimming.

George Washington became a land holder in Pennsylvania five years before he presided over the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia in 1787. The land he once owned is now part of the borough of Perryopolis in Fayette county.

If you want a good old-fashioned Pennsylvania German dinner you should ask for Schnitz un Knepp (fried apples, ham and dumplings), Kartoffel Kloesse (potato croquettes), Shoo-fly Pie (molasses crumb pie), or Welschkorn Eishart-Puffen (oyster corn fritters).

In the Moravian cemetery in Lititz is the grave of General Sutter upon whose property in California gold was first discovered to start the rush of 1849. Sutter's claim to that land was declared invalid and he tried for a long time to retrieve it.

One day while waiting on the White House steps in Washington two newsmen rushed to him with "news" that the land was once again his. The excitement proved fatal to Sutter and he never knew that the youngsters were only playing a joke on an old man.

Athens, which is only four miles inside the northern Pennsylvania border, was named in 1786 after the democratic Greek city by Connecticut settlers who intended to set up a border state independent of the Penn family.

New Kensington, prominent Pennsylvania community in defense industries, is known as the "Aluminum City" because of several large aluminum plants located there.

At Nicholson in Wyoming county, is the Nicholson Viaduct, highest concrete bridge in the world. It spans Tunkhannock Creek. It is 2,375 feet long and 240 feet high. It has 10 81-foot spans and two 100-foot spans. It took three years to build this bridge.

Schwartzville, Montgomery county village, boasts of interesting rock formations that attract tourists. They are: Lookout Rock, Kettle Rock, Balanced Rock, Tree Rock and Ringing Rocks.

More U. S. Troops Land In Iceland

Passengers On Freighter Reaching New York From Iceland Make Report

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 26.—The continuing arrival of American troop reinforcements in Iceland was reported Friday by passengers of the freighter Detfloss, first ship of that country to reach here since the occupation of the island by the U. S.

More troops were arriving as the ship left, Sigmund Sigmundson, first mate of the Detfloss, said. Sketchy reports that "some marines have landed" comprised the only information given out by the war department since the occupation was ordered by President Roosevelt.

Sigmundson said that Icelanders were "glad to see American troops." The American soldiers were working day and night constructing barracks and gun emplacements. Peter Peterson, a seaman, reported. The Detfloss carried no armaments but had oil drums to be used for smoke screen purposes if necessary. Her cargo was fish meal, cod-liver oil and sheep's wool.

Fate of an appointee who faked Stalin shoots him; Hitler disavows him; Mussolini sends him to the front; Roosevelt keeps him and appoints another one to do his work.

Camp Period All Too Short

East Brook Y. W. C. A. Campers Like Program—Many Interesting Features

Third period campers are now feeling very much at home at Camp East Brook. Many are already expressing the wish that the period would be much longer. The past two days have brought a variety of fun and activity.

A treasure hunt took the girls from one end of the camp to the other Wednesday night. At intervals Helen Hayes' whistle brought the scattered seekers together to hear the newest clue. After a very hot pursuit, Mary Ann Johnson uncovered the marshmallow treasure near the badminton court. The group then gathered around a grand campfire built by "Peneune," June Parsons and "Pefe" Pugh.

While the logs burned brightly the girls put on clever nature charades. Harbor cabin came through with an unguessed one, bittersweet. As the flames turned to embers the girls toasted marshmallows and sang.

Thursday morning brought new possibilities to camp as "Kit" draped her freshly dried oilcloth target on R. R. Maxwell's bales of straw. Enthusiastic groups gathered during the morning periods for archery instruction given by "Scottie" and "Kit". Two holes grazed the bullseye at the close of the morning periods.

Spare moments, in the afternoon, were spent in the dining room midst much hilarity. Groups were preparing stunts for the evening amateur hour. At 7:15 June Parsons stepped before the microphone and announced the features in a capable manner. Unusual numbers were: the Shenango cabin as the Dionne quintuplets; Betty Boyd, Verna Taylor and "Pefe" Pugh as Dwarfina; Caddie and Dottie Wallace and Betty Kennehan in a backward trio, and Helen Hayes and Joan Kishaka in a jitterbug number. Humorous readings by Florence Badger and Betty Rhorer were very well received. The comedians then entertained with the play "Meliorama". "Skipper" as Maggie brought down the house when she appealed to "Kit" (Michael DePopolo) with a banana—which both devoured.

The warm night enabled four poncho-clad campers to enjoy their slumber under the stars, with "Skipper" as overseer.

Starting Search For Oil Pools In State

New Apparatus To Be Used In Effort By State
Representatives

By LEONARD APELBAUM
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 26.—Impelled by national defense needs, the state today launched a search for new oil pools.

Secretary of Internal Affairs William S. Livingston Jr., directed Dr. George H. Ashley of the bureau of topographic and geologic survey to experiment with geo-electric apparatus in the hope of locating new sources of oil. Livingston expressed the belief that a brand new pool, similar to those discovered four years ago in Lafayette township, McKean county, might be found.

National defense requires increased supplies of minerals and geologists of the department are now searching for them, said Livingston. "The production of Pennsylvania crude, largely used for lubrication, is a national defense measure and the output has been going down recently. Most oil wells long since ceased to flow freely in the Pennsylvania fields and now yield grudgingly to pumps." Despite this, however, the state leads the nation in the production of crude oil.

"To increase oil production, new pools must be discovered," he continued. "That not all the pools have as yet been found is shown by the Muskegon oil pool survey, embraced in the geologic survey's progress report."

"It is not known," said Livingston, "whether the geo-electric apparatus with which the department proposes to experiment will disclose oil pools, but Dr. Ashley believes it is worth trying. In the meantime, four geologic survey parties are engaged in detailed studies of the northern oil fields."

Domestic airlines, 16 in number, carried 177,055 passengers during January, 1941, flying 69,047,939 miles—an increase of approximately 30 per cent over the same month in 1940.

80 Bags Of Peanuts Daily Menu For Capitol Park Squirrels, Birds

HARRISBURG, Pa. July 26.—It can never be said that the pigeons and squirrels in the State Capitol Park at Harrisburg are among the ill-fed and undernourished—since tourists, casual passers-by and Capitol employees buy approximately 80 bags of peanuts a day to feed the park inhabitants according to the State Department of Commerce.

The man holding the peanut monopoly is 67-year-old John P. Stailey who was for years a canal boatman on the old Columbia to Nanticoke line and can offer many interesting stories about canal days. He has also been a railroad and steel worker. After securing a permit to sell peanuts in Capitol Park in 1939 he settled down to a relaxed life of sitting in the park all day long with a basket of peanut bags beside him. To many he is a familiar figure "settin' in the sun" surrounded by his bird and animal friends who seem to know that good business for him means more food for them.

Stailey says that business drops off on rainy days and reaches its peak on warm, summer Saturdays and Sundays when club groups or school children and tourists wander through the park on their way to visit the buildings of the Capitol group.

It is not unusual to see pudgy pigeons and squatty squirrels in a mad scramble for peanuts dropped to them by adults who are as fascinated with the creatures as the children are.

Camera enthusiasts get in contention to catch unusual shots of a fat squirrel hiding his peanut loot or a couple of pigeons looking like something out of a Disney cartoon as they splash around in the bird bath after a hearty meal.

POLITICAL GALLERY
In the police department is a bulletin board containing photos of persons seeking political office. However, some joker doctored the cards so badly the candidate would not now be known by his picture.

Recognition For Services Rendered Red Cross Is Given Local Woman

Mrs. Norman H. Martin, assistant to Mrs. W. W. Duff, surgical dressing chairman, Lawrence County Chapter of the American Red Cross, has been given two honors, one by the National Red Cross and the other by the local chapter.

The National Red Cross sent in a certificate of appreciation in recognition for an outstanding piece of work as an assistant chairman in surgical dressings.

The local chapter presented the production volunteer pin a recognition that is only given to volunteers doing an outstanding service.
